NEW COFFER READY. This huge coffer dam on the West Virginia side of the Ohio River has been completed by the Dravo Corp. of Pittsburgh, which is building the new super-dam at Stratton. The coffer will be pumped dry and work started on the second phase of the project. The section of the dam with twin locks on the Ohio side can be seen in the background. In the center is the only section of the river still open. Because of the swift current, however, tows use the new locks, which also can be seen in the background. Linking the center section to the two sides will be the final phase of the dam project, which was started late in 1958.

Cars Crash Near Chester

City Resident Killed Instantly, 3 Injured In Head-On Wreck

Car Driven By Son Hit On Route 30

P. E. Ammon Dies; Youth, Grandmother In 'Fair' Condition

A 46-year-old city steelworker was killed and 3 were injured in a head-on collision early Friday evening on a sharp curve of the Route 30 hill back of Chester.

Paul E. Ammon, 848 Fairview St., died instantly in the crash when an auto operated by his son was struck by another driven by an Aliquippa youth.

The victim was Hancock County's first traffic fatality for 1960.

Mr. Ammon, a Crucible Steel Co. employe at Midland, was riding in a 1956 model two-door sedan operated by his son, Cpl. Ronald Ammon, 20. Mrs. Margaret Fenton, 60, of 411 Monroe St., the youth's grandmother, was riding in the rear seat.

Hancock County sheriff's deputies said the auto operated by the younger Ammon was heading east toward Pittsburgh when the westbound auto of Charles R. Logston, 23, of Aliquippa careened across the center line and smashed into the serviceman's car.

Deputies said the accident occurred on a sharp curve at Park Pl., midway up the twisting Route 30 hill.

Cpl. Ammon is in "fair" condition today in City Hospital with severe lacerations of the right leg, right cheek and abrasions of the right arm.

Mrs. Fenton suffered a laceration of the forehead, left eye and a possible fractured back and also is in "fair" condition in the hospital.

The Aliquippa motorist, who was driving a late model Oldsmobile, is in "fair" condition with severe lacerations of the left leg, lacerations of the face and right eye

A six-member cororner's jury was impaneled last night by Squire John D. Herron of New Cumberland and viewed the victim's body today at Weirton General Hospital. An inquest will be held Monday night at 7:30 in Squire Herron's office in New Cumberland.

The victim, his son and Mrs. Fenton were en route to Greater Pittsburgh Airport to meet Cpl. Ammon's wife, arriving from Augusta, Ga., where he is stationed with the Army.

The grinding crash occurred about 8 p. m. Mr. Ammon was pronounced dead on arrival at City Hospital at about 8:30. Traffic was tied up on the hill for about 20 minutes until the wreckage was removed.

The jury includes Theodore Turley, Clifford Prosser, Samuel Minesinger, Benny Parr, Jacob Baxter and Roy McCauley.

$40,000 Fire Razes Negley District Plant

Packaging Facility, Including Chemicals And Equipment Lost

NEGLEY — Fire destroyed the Rite Therm Industrial Packaging Co. at 10:10 Friday night. No official estimate has been made of the loss but it is expected to go over $40,000.

The firm, an affiliate of the Lakewood Chemical Co., which is located a mile east, packages and ships chemicals used in the treatment of steel and other metals in foundries and mills.

The loss included a large supply of chemicals, several tons of aluminum pellets and expensive equipment including a mixer, furnace, wrapping machine and hilift.

The blaze was discovered by Melvin Sutherin of East Palestine, one of two workmen on the night shift. He said he was working at a machine when he noticed a light in the rear of the building. Investigating, he found flames shooting through the roof.

There is no phone in the building and he had to run to a nearby home to call firemen. East Palestine firemen were summoned at 10:20. Another worker, William

Informal Negotiations Held At Struck Plant

EAST PALESTINE — Donald Gillies, owner and president of the Adamson Manfacturing Co., and leaders of USW Local 1449 held informal contract negotiations Friday from noon until 9 p. m.

Some 90 shop and office employes walked off their jobs when bargaining collapsed Wednesday afternoon and picketing began. Gillies said today that nothing definite has been agreed upon but that further negotiations are scheduled to begin Monday at 2 p. m. Del Turco of Aliquippa, a USW representative, will attend the talks.

Pickets remained at the plant. The disagreement apparently hinges on fringe benefits asked by the union.

USW Rejects Contract Offer Of 3 Firms

Pittsburgh Steel, 2 Other Pennsylvania Companies Involved

PITTSBURGH (AP) — United Steelworkers employed at Pittsburgh Steel Co. and two other smaller western Pennsylvania steel firms have voted 4,989-2,472 to reject the companies' last contract offer.

Results of the vote—required by a Taft-Hartley injunction under which the employes at the three companies have been working—were announced by the regional office of the National Labor Relations Board in Pittsburgh Friday night.

However, the outcome of the vote is not binding and the USW is still free to strike the companies at the expiration of the injunction next Tuesday. The injunction was invoked last Nov. 7 and halted the record 116-day steel strike.

After the results of the vote were announced, Eugene Maurice, director of USW Dist. 13, said:

"We are not thinking in terms of a strike. We are thinking only in terms of a fair labor contract." He indicated the union will not strike when the injunction expires next Tuesday.

A spokesman for Pittsburgh Steel said, "We have to study these results before we have any comment."

Pittsburgh Steel, the nation's 15th largest steel producer, Moltrup Steel Products Co. of Beaver Falls, Pa., and the Joseph Reyerson and Son plant at Carnegie, Pa. were involved in the vote. They were among the steel companies which refused to sign when the basic steel industry and the union came to terms last Jan. 4.

Of 7,748 eligible voters at six Pittsburgh Steel plants in Monessen and Allenport, Pa.; Akron, and Warren, Ohio; Worcester, Mass.; and Los Angeles, 4,760 workers voted to reject the contract offer and 2,458 voted to accept it.

Workers at Miltrup Steel voted 178 to 13 to reject their firm's offer. Employes at the Ryerson plant voted 51-1 against.

The basic steel industry and the USW signed a 30-month contract that included a 40-cent average hourly increase in wages and fringe benefits during the life of the pact. Steelworkers earned an average of $3.11 an hour under the old contract.

Pittsburgh Steel's contract offer is similar except that the firm wants reductions in its incentive pay scale, which it claims is higher than the industry average. The company is also seeking a 32-month contract instead of 30 months.

Plans Film In Rome

MOSCOW (AP)—Sergei Bondarchuk, Soviet film star, has gone to Rome to make a picture directed by Roberto Rosselini, "Night Time in Rome." Bondarchuk told a Moscow newspaper before leaving that he will play the part of a Russian "who lays down his life for freedom, for Italy, and for the triumph of peace on earth."

Water Seeping In

Trapped Miners Face New Peril

COALBROOK, South Africa (AP)—Air is now getting through to 406 miners trapped deep in the Clydesdale North Colliery here, rescuers said today. But water seeping into the diggings presented a new hazard.

There still was no communication with the entombed men. A pipe line along which "pipe talk" could be passed was broken in the rock fall that entombed the men behind a mile-thick rubble barrier.

The fact that air was getting through means that, if there are still survivors, they are in less danger from gas.

Rescue teams told newsmen of walking chest-deep in water that may be filling the lower workings. Maps have been sent down to help rescue workers now trying to work a way around the obstruction, through long disused passageways. Some inched their way along the main haulage shaft at a rate of two feet an hour.

A massive diamond drilling machine of 13-inch bore—the fastest in South Africa—was on the way to Coalbrook. The machine was expected to reach the pithead late tonight.

It is to be used to sink a hole to improve ventilation and establish communication with the area where the men were trapped by a rockfall Thursday, 6,000 feet underground.

Veteran miners said that if the trapped men had not been killed in the two rock falls that sealed them underground Thursday, there was a glimmer of hope some might survive.

They expressed the belief the men would not perish from thirst or hunger. Water seeps continuously through the rock walls, and 45 horses still trapped with the men could provide food.

One miner estimated that the men could stay alive for three months.

Human Jigsaw Puzzle

Intricate Mysteries Posed In Crash Of Two Airliners

WASHINGTON (AP) — An airliner plunged into the Gulf of Mexico Nov. 16. Another crashed in North Carolina Jan. 6. Together they make one of the most intricate mysteries investigators have ever been asked to solve.

More pieces of this human jigsaw puzzle keep coming in all the time, but where the pieces fit and the kind of picture they make is still as baffling as ever. Here are some of the questions that haven't been answered:

1. Were the two crashes in which a total of 76 persons died caused by bombs? Even this much has not been proved. The first plane is at the bottom of the Gulf of Mexico. Of the second, the latest word is that if an explosive made it disintegrate in air, it was an uncommon kind, not like dynamite or nitroglycerine which leave telltale traces.

2. If the Gulf crash was caused by a bomb, was it planted by Robert Vernon Spears, a naturopath and an ex-convict? He was listed as a passenger on the doomed plane, but the FBI found him alive Wednesday in Phoenix, Ariz.

3. Who took Spears' place as a passenger on the Gulf plane? Was it William A. (Al) Taylor, Spears' old pal? Did Spears hypnotize him into taking the plane in his place? Spears denies it. But he has long studied hypnotism, and his wife, Frances, says she is sure someone could be so hypnotized. There is no evidence Taylor was on the plane, but he hasn't been seen since the crash.

4. Can the North Carolina crash be traced to a suicide bomb? Julian A. Frank, 32, a heavily insured Westport, Conn., lawyer, has been an object of suspicion. An unproved theory is that Frank committed suicide by exploding a bomb on the plane, taking 33 others to death with him.

5. If the worst is true, was there some clandestine link between these two tragedies? There is some evidence that Spears and Frank had met, but it is not conclusive.

Disabled Plane Lands Safely At Pittsburgh

PITTSBURGH, Pa. (AP) — An Eastern Airlines four-engine Constellation plane with 27 passengers aboard landed safely today after circling the Greater Pittsburgh Airport for more than two hours with apparent landing gear trouble.

Airline officials said the plane landed without incident and there were no injuries. The landing strip had been foamed in case of a possible emergency landing.

The plane started circling the airport about 6 a.m. It was enroute from Miami, Fla., to Pittsburgh. Besides the passengers there were five crew members, aboard.

Bomb Threat 'A Joke'

BERLIN (AP)—A bomb threat by an anonymous telephone caller prompted a quick search of a West Berlin synagogue Friday. "A very bad joke," said one officer after police and firemen went through the building without finding any bomb.

Strike Halts $1 Billion In Ship Building

17,000 Bethlehem Workers Walk Out; Nuclear Craft Hit

QUINCY, Mass. (AP)—Work on a billion dollars worth of ship construction—including three nuclear-powered vessels—halted today as a strike by Bethlehem Steel Co. shipbuilders spread along the East Coast.

More than 17,000 workers at nine Bethlehem plants were expected to be affected by the walkout, which began Friday at Hoboken, N.J., and jumped to West Milton, N.Y., and Quincy today. Some 12,250 employes already were involved in the dispute.

A spokesman for Local 5, Industrial Union of Marine and Shipbuilders, said the full impact of the strike might not be felt until Monday because only skeleton forces work weekends in some areas.

He said other Bethlehem plants expected to be affected are at East Boston, Mass., Sparrows Point, Key Highway, and Baltimore, Md., and Brooklyn and Staten Island, N.Y.

The strike halted construction in Quincy on the 250-million-dollar cruiser Long Beach, the destroyer Bainbridge, and the frigate Luce. Each is nuclear-powered. Work also ceased on the cruiser Springfield, being converted into a missile carrier, and on five tankers. Some 11,000 workers were affected in Quincy.

At Hoboken, more than 1,000 men walked out of the Bethlehem yard. In West Milton, N.Y., 250 workers struck, halting production of the prototype hull for the destroyer Bainbridge, being built at Quincy.

The union's contract with Bethlehem expired July 31. A union spokesman said the basic grievances are seniority and call-in pay. Wage increases had not been discussed, he said.

John F. McGonnigal, executive secretary of Local 5, said there are three classes of hourly rated mechanics at the Quincy Fore River yard. This is the largest affected by the strike. The mechanics are paid, respectively, $2.80, $2.63 and $2.54. At Bethlehem's West Coast yards, he said, there is only one class of mechanics who are paid $2.85 an hour.

McGonnigal said the usual practice has been to give four hours pay to an employe called in and then sent home because of lack of work. Under present work rules, he said, the company will pay only one hour.

"But on the West Coast," he said, "the company has restored the four-hour call-in pay."

Koreans Get $33,000

SEOUL, Korea (AP)—U.S. military authorities announced today they paid $33,000 last week on 22 claims submitted by Korean nationals against the U.S. Armed Forces. These payments—for property damage and personal injury—brought to $400,000 total compensation paid so far.

Cold Spell To Continue With Snow Flurries

A cold weekend is in store for the East Liverpool area with a low of 10 to 15 due tonight and snow flurries through Sunday.

Today's high will remain below freezing with a range of 22 to 26 degrees forecast. The thermometer hit the midpoint of that range for its overnight low — 24 degrees, so there will be little moderation today

Cincinnati this morning had a temperature of 15 while nearby Covington, Ky., had 5. Elsewhere temperatures were generally in the upper teens or low 20's. The temperature at Columbus was 18, Cleveland 21 and Findlay 16.

The city got more snow than had been expected last night — the forecast was for flurries but the accumulation was enough to whiten the ground and cause some slipperiness for traffic.

Chester Vote To Be April 5; First Entered

Councilman Percy Willison of Pyramus St. filed Friday with Roy Cashdollar, Chester city clerk, for a new term in the 5th Ward in the April 5 primary. He is a Republican.

Willison is the first to file for the Chester election. Offices to be filled include those of mayor, city clerk, and five Council posts for two years each.

The general election will be June 7. Those elected take over July 1.

Filing fees are: mayor and city clerk, $20 each and councilman $10. The deadline for filing is March 5.

Willison operates a barbershop and has served as councilman 25 years. He is a former superintendent of the maintenance department of the West Virginia State Road Commission in Hancock County. He is married and has a son and a daughter.

Chester Patrolman Files For GOP Post

Chester patrolman Harold Davis, 230 Carolina Ave., was one of four Hancock County residents to file Friday and today for nomination in the May 10 primary.

Davis, a police officer for 10 years, is seeking nomination to the post of Grant District constable on the Republican ticket.

He is 49, a native of Mountain, W. Va., and has resided in Chester 23 years. He is married and has a daughter and three sons.

Other new candidates include Samuel Locascio of Weirton, Democrat, for the County Executive Committee from Butler District; William P. Ambrose of Chester, for Democratic constable of Grant District, and Charles Chappy Ballato for Democratic county commissioner from Butler District.

Biggest Balloons Due To Be Launched By U.S

ABOARD THE U.S.S. CARRIER VALLEY FORGE (AP)—The carrier Valley Forge and six destroyers steamed eastward into the Atlantic today to launch the world's largest balloons.

But there was a big worry. Unexpected strong winds blew more than 100,000 feet above the ocean.

Bonsal Report Due Today On Cuba Situation

Castro's Mounting Anti-U.S. Campaign Will Be Discussed

HAVANA (AP)—U.S. Ambassador Philip W. Bonsal flies home today to report on Prime Minister Fidel Castro's mounting anti-American campaign.

The envoy prepared to head for Washington with some observers feeling that the fiery Prime Minister wants to wreck traditional Cuban-U.S. friendship and eventually oust the United States from its key Guantanamo naval base here.

Bonsal did not spell out what he will report to the State Department, but associates said he has been convinced in the past few days that Castro himself is behind the anti-American drive and that only Castro can stop it.

The situation has reached such a stage that some Americans and Cubans have even been asking about a possible diplomatic break.

Such a suggestion—which would have been deemed fantastic a few weeks ago—has been encouraged by the running progaganda barrage by Castro-supported organs against Bonsal, President Eisenhower, and the United States in general.

The Cuban government's picture of the widening rift is quite different from the one Bonsal is expected to draw for the State Department.

Castro and his aides claim the United States is responsible for the breach. They insist Washington encourages dictators and traitors and permits air raids on Cuban sugar fields. They also have accused Washington of threatening economic reprisals for Cuban government seizure of American investments.

Observers say Castro's campaign is aimed at breaking up ties between Havana and Washington in order to fit Cuba into a new international scheme. They say the plan is not Communist-directed but that it follows closely the pattern of Communist countries.

Fire

Noel, also of East Palestine, escamped uninjured.

Firemen said the entire roof of tarpaper and wood was in flames when they arrived. The concrete block building is situated along Route 154 at the east end of the village.

Fire Chief Don Mahon of Negley said 25 Negley firemen and 18 from East Palestine fought the blaze for nearly four hours.

The fire is believed to have started from defective wiring in an overhead exhaust system.

Two nearby homes, one occupied by Robert Justice, owner of the building, and the other of James Haun, both were threatened by the flames which at times shot 40 feet high. Firemen were able to keep the aluminum cool with water to avoid too much fusing but were unable to put water on the chemicals for fear of creating a gas.

Noting remained but the cement block walls of the 50-x-70-feet building.

Fire Damages Home Near Hammondsville

HAMMONDSVILLE — A faulty chimney was blamed in an early-morning fire at the home of William Grafton of Pine Grove Ridge, Irondale village firemen reported.

Firemen were called at 1:30 a. m. when weatherboarding and inside wall material caught fire in the upstairs of the two - story frame home about eight miles from Hammondsville.

Fire Chief Oliver Nicholson said 10 men made the run but Grafton's sons had the blaze nearly under control when the truck arrived.

The youths knocked plaster boarding and lath from the upstairs wall and firemen then extinguished the blaze. The chimney served a grate in the downstairs.

The chief said damage was confined to an upstairs bedroom. There were no injuries. The home is partially - covered by insurance, firemen reported.

Nicholson also issued a reminder to Irondale and Hammondsville area homeowners on the proper procedure of phoning in an alarm to the Irondale station. Callers should dial the operator and say, "'I want to report a fire, give me the Irondale fire department'."

As Irondale firemen charge $200 for a run outside the village limits, homeowners in outlying areas should contact their insurance representatives to have a fire clause included in their policies, Nicholson added.

Boy Wounded By Gun Is In 'Fair' Condition

A Glenmoor youth remains in "fair" condition today with a gunshot wound of the abdomen suffered when a target pistol being loaded by a friend discharged Thursday afternoon at an area farm.

Robert Johnson, 17, son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Johnson, was shot by the .22-caliber pistol being loaded by Homer Hoffman Jr. They were on the Hoffman farm between Glenmoor and Westfield.

The Columbiana County Sheriff's office said the shooting was accidental.

Gunman Grabs $1,300

CINCINNATI (AP) — A young gunman took about $1,300 from a supermarket here Friday, but fled empty-handed from another market, police reported. Investigators said the stocky bandit forced Ed Leininger, 53, an Albers chain store manager, to empty money from the store safe in a paper bag. The gunman fled but his try to duplicate the robbery at a Kroger Co. store backfired because the manager was away from the store.

Youth Institute Attracts 160

Approximately 160 attended the first session of the Midwinter Youth Institute of the Steubenville District Methodist Church Friday at the First church. Registration beban about 4 p. m.

Following dinner at 6, Dr. Harold Ewing, pastor of the Union Ave. Church at Alliance, addressed the group on "What Will You Do With Your Life?" The talk emphasized Christian vocations. A discussion followed.

At 10:15, a candlelight service was conducted by the Rev. Gail McQueen, pastor of the Boyce church.

The Rev. Carl Beighley, pastor of the Calvary church, is district youth director. The district includes Columbiana, Carroll, Jefferson and Harrison Counties.

About 100 remained overnight with their hosts.

The session resumed this morning with group singing led by Mrs. William Snowball of Salem. It was to end early this afternoon.

PTA At Fairview Receives Bid To First Aid Class

Members of the Fairview Parent - Teacher Association of Industry have been invited, along with others of the community, to attend Red Cross first aid classes beginning Feb. 17.

At a meeting of the association Thursday evening at the school, Mrs. Elmer Gifford said that classes will be held for five weeks in the fire hall from 9:30 to 11:30 a. m., sponsored as a Girl Scout leaders project.

Police Chief E. J. Hineman was a guest and spoke on "The Relationship Between the Child, Parent and the Law." Mrs. Ed Ryan, president, announced that members with one or five years of perfect attendance should contact her or Mrs. Paul Dawson.

Founders' Day will be observed and past presidents will be honored at the meeting Feb. 18. Mrs. Woodrow Smith will be hostess.

A letter of thanks for clothing collected for needy children was read from Miss Dorothy Brdar. Mrs. Smith led devotions. There was group singing led by Mrs. Thelma Richards with Mrs. Ruth Reynolds accompanist.

Refreshments, served by Mrs. Gen Gianvito and Mrs. John Flasco, were furnished by the fourth grade parents.

Pittsburgh Firm To Get Contract For Air Survey

The State Tax Department at Charleston said Friday it had accepted tentatively a proposal by American Air Surveys, Inc., of Pittsburgh to aerially map an estimated 19,693 land parcels in Hancock County.

The firm asked $74,883 for the first step in the county's reappraisal program initiated in West Virginia primarily as a means of providing more local tax money for schools. The Hancock County Board of Education applied recently to participate.

The tentative per-parcel figure of $3.80 is $1.03 below the average cost of this phase of work in the 21 other counties which have joined the program.

Tax Commissioner Donald C. Carman said completion time for the mapping portion of the overall work runs 12 months, and actual property appraisal by a qualified company begins shortly after completion of about 50 per cent of the map work.

Carman said that a high ratio of urban parcels to rural in Hancock was a contributing factor to the low per-parcel rate.

Hancock Health Office Gives Tips For Avoiding Flu

With a flu-like virus hitting hard at some sections of the Northern Panhandle, Hancock County Health Department officials in New Cumberland have offered a few health tips to avoid the respiratory - like illnesses.

"Colds travel in all circles of society," the department warned, "so take necessary precautions if you have a cold."

"The infection you circulate today may boomerang in a short period," they added.

The department has advised county residents to stay away from infected persons and avoid use of their personal toilet articles.

Officials also advise staying out of dry, overheated rooms, getting sufficient sleep and eating a well-rounded diet, and recommend plenty of exercise and fresh air. However, they cautioned against overtiring, or getting wet and chilly.

"For protection of yourself and others, be sure to cough or sneeze into a handkerchief or disposal tissues," they continued.

Other health tips are plenty of rest and eating easily digested foods and drinking lots of fluids.

Weirton Defendant Given Term In Prison

NEW CUMBERLAND — James Lowe, 21, of Weirton Thursday was sentenced to a 1-10-year term in Moundsville State Penitentiary for breaking into the Schenley Jewelery firm in Weirton.

Lowe was indicted by the January Grand Jury. He changed his plea to guilty and was sentenced by Judge J. Harold Brennan.

Two others indicted in the burglary are due in court Feb. 4.

Funeral Set Monday

CINCINNATI (AP) — Funeral services are planned Monday for O. Degray Vanderbilt Jr., 75, chairman of the board of Taylor Wharton Iron & Steel Co. and president of Weir Hilby Corp. He died at his home Friday of a heart attack.

Patrol Helps Fined Driver

An Elm Grove (W. Va.) motorist, who was fined $25 and costs today in Municipal Court as the aftermath of an accident, will be allowed 60 days to pay off his fine because a State Highway patrolman urged leniency.

Judge Samuel M. Chertoff originally told John A. Barrett the fine and costs would have to be paid before he could leave.

However, Patrolman Jay Wattleworth told the judge Barrett showed good faith in appearing this morning after being given a citation Monday morning and said he believes the defendant would pay the fine if given sufficient time.

Judge Chertoff, noting that he was violating his own rule that he established when he took the bench Jan. 1, said he would go along with the patrolman and allow Barrett until March 23 to pay. Barrett told the court he had been unemployed for 8 months.

Barrett was cited for driving left of center after his car skidded on the icy super-road, jumped the medial strip, made a U-turn and then struck another car operated by Pete Kurty, 51, of Toronto.

Robert M. Hughes of Mt. Vernon, Ill., now residing in LaCroft, was fined $50 and costs by Judge Chertoff on a reckless driving charge filed by the patrol.

Judge Chertoff said he will suspend $25 of the fine if Hughes obtains an Ohio driver's license required by state law by Feb. 10.

Hughes was cited early Thursday on Route 30 when he lost control of his car and it overturned.

Vernon Hull, 7 North St., Salineville, was fined $10 and costs on a speeding charge filed by city police. He was cited Monday for traveling 55 miles an hour in a 35-mile zone on W. 8th St.

A hearing for Charles Griffith was continued at the request of his counsel. Griffith was cited by the patrol Thursday for failing to yield the right-of-way by pulling from a private drive onto Route 30. The date for the hearing was not set.

Dales Given Oath On Health Board

C. Frank Dales, recently reappointed to the East Liverpool Board of Health by Mayor Bert Goodballet, was sworn in by Dr. J. Keith Rugh at the meeting of the board Thursday night in the City Hall.

Dr. Rugh, vice chairman, served in the absence of Emil Liebschner, chairman, who was ill.

Listing of 159 births and 54 deaths in the past month was reported for vital statistics and there were 265 inspections for sanitation in restaurants, grocery stores and taverns, and miscellaneous.

Dr. E. G. Kuhlman, city health commissioner, reported 13 children were examined Jan. 15 in the orthopedic clinic conducted by Dr. William B. Mikita of Steubenville.

The next meeting is Feb. 18.

Chester Nurse Chapter Plans Valentine Dance

A St. Valentine's Day dance Feb. 5 for district high school students was planned at the meeting of the Future Nurses of America Chapter of Chester High School Thursday evening at the school.

Mrs. Senja Vaughn of Chester, a registered nurse and X-ray technician at City Hospital, spoke on nursing requirements. The seniors of the group were invited to attend a tea next Thursday, at the Ohio Valley Hospital in Steubenville.

Refreshments were served by Becky McDonald and Becky Smith. Ruth West, president, presided. Next meeting will be Feb. 2.

District Youth Convicted By Juvenile Jury

Columbiana County's Juvenile Jury Friday convicted John R. Reark, 16, of R. D. 1, East Liverpool High School student, who was charged with speed excessive for road and weather conditions. The jury recommended that his driver's license be suspended for seven days and Judge Louis Tobin ordered him to surrender it to the bailiff.

The youth was cited after he lost control and ditched his car about 4:45 p. m.. on Dec. 12 while traveling south on Shadyside Ave Ext. He was cited by the State Highway Patrol.

Approximately 40 students from 12 high schools reported as prospective jurors for the fourth such jury in the juvenile courtroom in the Lisbon Village Hall.

Atty. J. Warren Bettis, assistant prosecutor, represented the state. The court assigned Joseph Baronzzi, Lisbon attorney, to represent the defendant.

Jurors were Jane Winland of East Liverpool, Ed Henry of Wellsville, Susan Beede of Beaver Local, James Solomon of Salem, Joyce Eskew of Lisbon, Dave Bailey of United, Richard Kellogg of Salineville, Sandra Berresford of East Palestine, Gayle Billett of Leetonia, Tom Mentz of Fairfield - Waterford, Charles McNeeley of Goshen and Barbara Glass of Sebring.

The next jury will be held Feb. 26 at the same location.

Woman In Ambulance Is Delivered Of Baby

NEW CUMBERLAND — D. R. Turley, a funeral home operator here, isn't a practicing physician but has compiled a perfect batting average in the tedious art of delivering babies en route to the hospital.

Turley delivered his 10th child over a 21-year span this morning at 2 in an ambulance carrying Mrs. Zack Jacobs to the Weirton General Hospital.

Turley reported today that both mother and son are "doing fine." The other babies delivered en route to a hospital also are sturdy specimens, he said.

Auction Night Staged By YMCA Stamp Club

"Auction Night" featured at the meeting of the East Liverpool YMCA Stamp Club Friday and the proceeds went to the club's treasury. Richard Smith, president, conducted the auction.

Young Motorist's Permit Suspended In Speeding Case

An 18-year-old Toronto youth lost his driver's license for 15 days, in addition to a fine of $50 and costs, when Municipal Judge Samuel M. Chertoff convicted him of reckless driving Friday as an aftermath of a race with police.

Calvin R. Lawrence was cited at 11:47 a. m. by Patrolman William E. McDaniel, who accused him of driving 42 miles an hour through the school zone at Westgate — where the limit is 20— then speeding 70 miles an hour in a 35-mile zone on W. 8th St. and hitting a top speed of 90 before he was overtaken and arrested on the East Liverpool-Wellsville "super-road."

After lecturing Lawrence on observance of motor vehicle laws, the judge suspended $30 of the fine.

Meanwhile, a woman driver cited after a mishap Jan. 15 in the California Hollow section of Route 30 forfeited a $31 bond Friday when she failed to appear on a reckless driving charge. Patricia A. Green, 20, of 1016 Dresden Ave. was cited by the State Highway Patrol after her auto went out of control and sheared off a utility pole.

This Is Not The Same Castro

Withdrawal of the United States ambassador to Cuba marks an apparent turning point in relations with that troubled country, though no one is in a position to say what the new road will be.

The United States tried sympathy and understanding. It gave Cuba's strong man a chance to strut his stuff in Washington, New York and a few way-stops last spring.

It has been patient and forbearing. It has been cooperative. It has been tactful. It has given Castro a chance to find himself and organize a government. It has tried forgiving and forgetting.

For its pains, to date, it has clinched nothing but a high place on the young politician's list of hatreds. Many careful observers, including some of Castro's comrades in arms during the Cuban revolution, are sure this is not the same Fidel Castro who led the overthrow of Fulgencio Batista's regime.

These observers feel certain that Castro either was playing along with the Communists who have been busy in the revolution, or that the Communists have seized the opportunity to make him their prisoner by surrounding him with people and circumstances that make it impossible for him to serve anything but Communist objectives. Logic favors the second view.

THE UNITED STATES now is confronted with the probability that the Communist conspiracy may set up one of its outposts in the Caribbean Sea. All strongly worded protests and economic sanctions would have no effect whatever if that happened.

But what can the United States do to keep it from happening, assuming that his country will not resort to armed force, lest it run afoul of emotional nationalism in Latin America and the censure not only of the United Nations, its principal allies in Europe and an angry public opinion at home?

Instead of muttering about strongly worded protests, a slash in sugar quotas to go with the virtual disappearance of tourist business and the voluntary ban on investments in Cuban enterprise, the United States might try the one thing it never has dared to carry on in the open.

It could make its own bid for popular support in Cuba.

It could do everything in its power as a good neighbor who wants to stay that way, to offset the strong bid of the Communists who are busy in Cuba.

It could act directly and realistically on the knowledge that the Fidel Castro who now lashes and excoriates friend and foe is not the same man who presented himself as the liberator of the have-nothings of Cuba.

It could start a people-to-people program to let Cubans know that the United States still feels enthusiastic about the aspirations of the original Fidel Castro—the big friendly man who wanted Americans to visit his beautiful Cuba, who wanted Americans to invest in Cuban industry and who wanted to purge Cuba of the terror and violence of the Batista years.

THIS WOULD amount to interference with a constituted government; that charge would be made, and it would be based in fact.

But it would amount to interference for the purpose of holding the Communist conspiracy at bay in the New World. It would be a modern refinement of the philosophy of the Monroe Doctrine — that the New World would not welcome the mischief-makers of the Old World when they came here bent on shaping new governments to carry on their ancient wars.

One Hypothetical Nose Per Person

One of the realities of life that must be faced sooner than it used to be faced is the nose-counting in the decennial census, which is required by the Constitution.

During the 19th century it was possible to believe the noses of the people of the United States were counted, because census-takers went through the motions.

It was still possible to believe this during the earlier part of this century. But anyone who believes it now has not been keeping abreast of reality.

The nose-counting of Americans in this advanced era of scientific hypotheses and statistical projections is done on a basis of probability. There is a counting machine in the Department of Commerce that reveals at any instant how many of us there should be if everything has been going along normally.

The machine merely ticks us off statistically. By April—and no fooling—there should be more than 180 million of us. It is a fascinating thought—the machine, not the 180 million. What if something went wrong with the machine?

There is, of course, no way to count noses when populations soar into multiple millions. In the time it would take to count everybody who was in existence at a given instant in time, hundreds of thousands would have died and hundreds of thousands would have been born. That's why the job must be done by projection, instead of by actual counting.

Yet, congressional apportionment depends on counting. That's why there must be a census every decade. The Constitution specifies the census as the foundation of representative government. But the Founding Fathers never dreamed the country would grow so large one day that no one would be able to count noses. That has been pretty well discounted as the primary function of the census.

The principal thing it does now is provide information about the way Americans live. It also provides a kind of check on the people-counter in the Department of Commerce. For all the statisticians know, the thing might be running fast or slow.

Years Of Service

Deserving honors were bestowed on Judge J. Harold Brennan Thursday night during a testimonial dinner at Steubenville.

The judge has served well during his 35 years on the bench and has been a credit to the judicial system. It must have been especially gratifying to have tribute paid by those who try cases in his court. The respect of one's associates is a valued gift.

May we add our congratulations to the others Judge Brennan has been receiving. Affairs of court in Hancock and Ohio counties are in good hands.

India Won't Be Lost By Default

The 10th anniversary of India's independence on Jan. 26 is being marked this year in the United States by widespread awareness for the first time of the gamble our government is taking on the world's largest uncommitted nation in the contest betwen the West andt he East.

It is not enough for Americans to want to help India because they feel sorry for the Indians. That is nothing more than philanthropy. There is vastly more at stake in India than the love of mankind.

The United States is stepping up its help for India because there is no other way to show U.S. policy in Asia, where the Soviet Union has made a protege of China. Russian aid to India, in the form of loans and goods, has been relatively small compared to aid from the United States. But with the Russian flair for making the most of the least, its aid to India has been dramatized to the limit.

Indians are never allowed to forget that the Soviet Union wants to be their friend, though the rape of Tibet by Chinese Communists and border incidents have made their government uncomfortably aware of a connection between the protege and the master.

The hope of the United States for India is, first, to show it how to ease the tension of its precarious food supply by becoming more productive. The vast food surpluses of the United States would be lost in India, but help of this nature will be expanded.

India's real need, however, is industry, to lift its people out of poverty. With industrialism would come, in due course, education and a more moderate birth rate. That would ease the food problem. Industrialism, itself, would ease the problem, as it has in the United States, where mechanized farming has multiplied the efforts of fewer food producers so more food can be produced. Per capita income in India is only $57 a year, and an average family spends two-thirds of its income for food.

The Soviet Union's protege, China, has the same problems as India. The race is to see which of these vast countries will be more responsive to industrialism. If India comes out ahead, the United States will have two "friends" in Asia. The other will be Japan, now having an industrial boom—and which was brought out of the Middle Ages by U.S. industrialism 100 years ago.

The Once Over

Hialeah is open and the bougainvillaea and hibiscus set is happy. Hialeah is part race track, part botanical garden, part adult playground and part Babylonian illusion. It is populated chiefly by folks who don't mind losing large sums in a flowery setting and who think the Gulf Stream warms up their wrong guesses.

Even cries of "The bum quit" seem softened by the rustle of royal palm trees. Touts who talk out of one side of their mouth up north use both sides in Florida because tropical verdure kills off their chilly sense of secrecy. Attitude of all at Hialeah is, "No matter what happens to me, I won't get weatherbeaten."

Greenery does something to dispositions. We leave northern tracks depressed but we have complete control of our feelings when we hear tropical birds singing and are losing our bankroll in summer shoes with our shirt unbuttoned. The luxury atmosphere is wonderful.

At Hialeah the horses drink orange juice and like stone crabs in their hay and oats.

The worst jockeys ride better when they know they are in little danger of catching pneumonia. There is so much money around that your mood of opulence is killed only if you are kicked by horse which has previously done nothing worse than disappoint you.

The Power Of Faith

By Howard Brodie

Overlooking the harbor of Gloucester, Mass., is a statue of a fisherman with the inscription, "They that go down to the sea in ships," from the 107th Psalm, which reads, "These see . . . his wonders in the deep."

The Americans of Portuguese ancestry who sail most of the Gloucester vessels today manifest their faith. A statue of Our Lady of Good Voyage sails with them in their pilot houses. In her honor, the church of Our Lady of Good Voyage is named, which is known internationally as the fishermen's shrine. When a tuna clipper sails from California, her skipper usually writes or wires the shrine, where prayers are said. Added to the knowledge and skill of the fishermen is the strength of faith.

"Our Lady is a comfort on a night like this," said a Captain Joe of Gloucester during a northeast gale, as he and his mate took turns at the wheel and prayed. When skippers approach harbor after a hazardous or bountiful voyage, they radio-telephone ahead to have the statue of Our Lady on top of the church illuminated, and she becomes a beacon of faith guiding the ships home. After the voyage, fishermen share in the profits, setting aside a portion for charities, called "God's share".

Imports Hurting Clothing Trade

By Victor Riesel

ROCHESTER, N.Y.

President Eisenhower's cabinet has been concerned over another invasion of the United States — by Japanese beautifully handtailored men's suits, Hong Kong men's shirts, women's blouses, pajamas for old and young and ladies' unmentionables, which I'll have to mention before this story is told.

Victor Riesel

This invasion is costing our garment manufacturers more than 200 million dollars a year — and our needle workers tens of thousands of jobs. Add this to what's coming in from all over the world in steel, autos, radio and television receivers, cameras and soon Russian furs and fish and you know why the cabinet is worried.

Here, in this center of fine garment production, you get the full story, for example, of a specter which is haunting all men's clothiers — from New York on to the West Coast.

It starts in a shaky Jap "cottage." There Japanese women — and there is nothing geisha about them — sew garments for two to three dollars a week.

Even for the dried fish and seaweed-eating proletariet of Nippon, this is less than half the industrial wage scale there.

WHEN THE GARMENT is finished, it is better than $ 250 man's suit here, according to Herbert Ferster, counsel to the Clothing Manufacturers Assn. of New York.

He has just returned from the Orient. The Japanese pants-and-jacket set sells in the U.S. for $45. It is completely hand tailored and has a hand-made cigarette pocket in addition to all the features of the suit you're wearing.

At the moment the garment is little more than a lusty gleam in the eye of the Japanese manufacturers. They have sold only 30 000 in the U.S. But they're turning out 3,000 a month. Soon this will be 5,000 for the American market.

They've just really been sampling us. But they're sitting on orders of 300,000 and are ready to build big garment plants to replace the cottage shops which have been turning out 70 per cent of the "samples."

WHAT TROUBLES both the U.S. manufacturers and such unions as Jack Potofsky's Amalgamated Clothing Workers is the expected pressure from the public, first on the retailers and then from the stores on the producers.

While there still is time to try and head off this Japanese threat, the menace of the moment is from refugee-jammed Hong Kong.

It is a vast heartbreak house and if you will permit a maudlin line, I wept as I walked among the tens on tens of thousands who have come across the Canton line into British territory.

No Chinese begs. He wants work. His work, however, has hit our nation.

To each his own worry. Down the line from here is the great shirt center of Troy, N.Y. Its workers are beginning to feel the impact of 30,000 dozen men's shirts flooding the United States each month — literally made at starvation wages.

Ferster and Frank Rosenblum, secretary-treasurer of the Amalgamated Clothing Workers, believe that the U.S. shirt manufacturing industry will be destroyed by Hong Kong imports alone unless there is cabinet action. And it is a bitter, not a tranquilizing pill to swallow but there soon will be a giant men's clothing factory whipping out suits in Hong Kong too.

IN THE OTHER END of the needle business, the corset and brassiere people are disturbed. John C. Conover, executive director of the Corset and Brassiere Assn. of America, reports that imports in his field reached 1,340,000 dozen bras last year.

As for women's blouses, some 1½ million dozen came from Hong Kong in 1959.

In all, the British Crown Colony sends over $5 million dollars worth of competing products a year. That's a lot of profit to knock out of our shops. And this is just the beginning.

Soon Hong Kong will have a new watch industry, paint and plastics factories and toy plants, among others. Small wonder the cabinet is on pins and needles.

Sobering Thought

By David Barnett

America's 3,000 foreign service officers overseas might as well face the sober fact: Uncle Sam is not going to shell out substantially more dough next year for martinis and shrimp dips.

Despite the high esteem currently held for diplomacy by social contact, the administration is making a watered-down pitch for entertainment funds for the fiscal year beginning next July.

President Eisenhower's new budget requests $875,000 for State Department representation allowances, sometimes called by congressmen "whisky money." When poured out to the increasing number of embassies and consulates, the total will provide the average diplomat with just about what he has this year.

For the current fiscal year, the state department last January asked $850,000, then cut the request to $830,000. Congress actually provided $825,000. In his new budget message. President Eisenhower said additional consulates and embassies would be opened during the next fiscal year in Africa, Latin America, South Asia and Eastern Europe.

SEN. HUGH SCOTT (R Pa) and Joseph Clark (D Pa), who recently returned from a joint overseas tour, contend U.S. representatives are hampered by inadequate entertainment funds.

The senators blame Rep. John Rooney (D NY), chairman of the House Appropriations subcommitt that handles State Department funds, for the application of the congressional wringer to the "wet" item in the State Department budget.

Actually, the department itself, starting last year, decided to try to get modest yearly increases in a spirit of fraternity rather than to continue the yearly brawls.

Two years ago, the department asked for one million dollars and uncorked its most potent arguments for the increased amount. John Foster Dulles, the secretary of state, told the congressmen it was "on the social occasions that you make far more progress, as a rule, than merely handling formal notes and the like."

Congress, neverthless, cut the request to $750,000.

Rep. Rooney admits that entertainment is "a necessary evil within certain limits."

A Diplomatic Triumph

By Jay G. Hayden

Signing Of Japanese Peace Treaty Lauded

Final signing of the revised peace treaty with Japan on Jan. 19, certified the second most important U.S. diplomatic triumph since World War II.

The first was West Germany's acceptance in 1954 of membership in NATO, bolstered by a promise which since has been essentially fulfilled — of a 400,000-man army, a 75,000-man air force and a 25,000-man navy committed to the defense of Western Europe against communism.

Similarly, the journey of Prime Minister Nobusuke Kishi halfway around the world to attach his signature to the present treaty goes a long way toward assuring all free nations in the Far East against engulfment by the two Communist mammoths, Russia and China.

The latter triumph is all the more convincing because of rising hope that Russia, one day, may turn its eyes westward to the extent of renouncing China as an ally.

Just as with West Germany, the United States lifted Japan from the floor of World War II defeat and contributed largely to rebuilding it as a greatly improved free nation. It is not too much to say that Japan today is stronger — physically, mentally and morally— than at any time in its history.

STARTING IN 1945 from a base of complete annihilation, both militarily and in economic relation to the outside world, Japan has staged a phenomenal comeback. It now has a self defense force of 230,000 — 170,000 ground troops, an air force of 33,000 men and 600 planes and a navy of 27,000 men and 400 ships.

Coincidentally, the utter destruction of Japanese manufacturing industry by American bombs was turned into an asset by opening the way for modernization along American lines, begun during the period of complete U.S. military occupation.

With its market for textiles, which it mainly depended on, largely wiped out by World War II, Japan has turned to diversified manufacture, mainly of iron and steel products.

It is building for export everything from giant electric power plants to cameras and electric shavers. In marked contrast with its pre-war reputation of producing only cheap imitations of Western appliances, many of its commodities today are rated with the world's best.

In 1957 Japan led the world in shipbuilding for a second year by launching 433 vessels of 2,432,000 tons. Among these were 106 oil tankers, including the world's three largest, each 85,000 tons dead weight. Orders on hand as of Jan. 1, 1958, were for 230 ships, aggregating 3,875,000 gross tonnage.

Japan probably received its biggest boost from the four-year Korean War.

Inevitably cast as the main United Nations base during that conflict, Japan profited enormously from both the presence of foreign forces on its soil and by the supply of both goods and civilian employes.

BY THE SAME TOKEN Japanese citizens, as they began to regain social and economic self-sufficiency, grew to resent being bossed around by a host of foreigners, coming and going unasked.

That experience paved the way for the present treaty. The first peace treaty, signed by President Truman in 1951, technically restored Japanese sovereignty but it maintained a large right of U.S. occupation, with scarcely anything in the way of compensatory benefits for the Japanese.

Since then, nearly all U.S. land forces have been pulled out but the Japanese found many points for complaint, on the ground chiefly that the treaty was not in fact mutual.

Under the new arrangement, U.S. occupation is continued regarding the air force and navy but with specificiation that this is for the protection of Japan and with no counter requirement of Japanese military aid to the U.S. except on Japanese soil.

It is provided further that the Japanese government must consent before either American forces are deployed from Japanese bases for outside combat or nuclear weapons are installed in Japan.

Curiously the present treaty signing dates just 100 years after the first Japanese mission to visit the United States was received by President Buchanan, in 1860.

Sen. Morse's Code

By Robert Branson

Sen. Wayne Morse, whose labor film attacking fellow Democrat Sen. John F. Kennedy has become a box office hit on the union hall circuit, made the film in a non-union shop that has been under AFL-CIO attack for years.

Morse's 28-minute monologue on celluloid was produced in the U.S. Senate recording studio operated by Robert J. Coar. Coar and his staff of 11 helpers belong to no union. They make films for senators at cut rates.

Commercial newsreel men who cover Congress expressed surprise that the Oregon senator, fervent advocate of unionism, did not hire union technicians to do his work.

"It is inconsistent, in fact ridiculous," said Andrew Willoner, president of the Washington Audio-Video Sound Engineers. "It makes a mockery of free enterprise and union principles."

Al Hardy, broadcasting division director of the AFL-CIO's International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers, said that his and other unions have fought more than 10 years against the Senate studio that Morse used.

Hardy called the studio "unfair competition" and said the AFL-CIO "is strongly opposed to the operation of any government facility in direct competition with private industry.

MORSE FILMED his one-man show in the Capitol basement last September. He accused Kennedy of selling out organized labor in return for Southern convention votes. He called Kennedy "the man most responsible" for passage of "one of the most anti-labor bills" in U.S. history.

When the film was made, Morse ordered seven prints for his own use in Oregon. He said he wanted his constituents to understand why he and the late Sen. William Langer (R-ND) were the only two senators to vote against the labor reform bill of 1959.

Morse's "talkie" proved such a success that some 60 additional prints were made. The negative wore out last November and the senator went back to the Senate basement to ad-lib a new version.

Prints of it are still in hot demand. Morse's office would not say how many have been distributed all told.

The film's popularity with union audiences is a sore point at Kennedy-for President headquarters. Calls for prints have come from union halls and banquet organizers coast to coast.

The Teamsters reportedly ordered about 10 copies of the Morse film, the Machinists five. Other requests came from such widely scattered points as the Dallas local of Meatcutters and Butchers and a Motion Picture Projectionists' unit at Levittown, N. Y.

The charge for each print was $40, the price Morse had to pay at the Senate shop, plus small amounts for handling and mailing.

A commercial studio here said that if Morse had filmed his lecture with union help, the cheapest rate would have been around $55 per print, plus $100 or $400 initial production costs.

"The reason unions can buy this film so cheap is that non-union workers made it and the taxpayer foots a good share of the bill," it was said.

MORSE HIMSELF was unavailable for comment but his administrative assistant, William Berg Jr, said the senator "authorized" the following statement:

"All he (Morse) did was to use the normal facility available to 100 senators. The important thing to remember is that it is a government facility. Whether or not it is unionized is entirely up to the Senate. If anyone has a complaint, why doesn't he consult 99 other senators?"

Besides the Senate studio, a similar non-union recording shop is available for U.S. representatives on the House side of the Capitol.

Both facilities have been denounced repeatedly by the National Assn. of Broadcast Engineers and Technicians and the International Alliance of Stage Employes as well as by the AFL-CIO Electrical Workers.

Morse's film is an uninterrupted monologue which shows him at a desk with a bookcase and an American flag beside him. In the background is a cardboard photomural of the capitol dome.

Registration Schedule Set

Drive To Begin Monday For 'Gray' Ladies, Men

Monday will mark the official opening of the week-long local Red Cross recruitment drive to enroll Gray Ladies and Gray Men for volunteer service in community hospitals and nursing homes, it was announced today by Mrs. Myer Alpern, recruitment chairman.

The program is open to all residents over 18 years of age in Chester, Newell and Wellsville as well as in East Liverpool, Mrs. Alpern said.

Table displays will be located at five downtown business establishments where uniformed staff aides and volunteer service department members will be on duty to give information and furnish application blanks.

THE SCHEDULE of hours and location for registration follows: First National Bank and Potters Bank and Trust, 10:30 to 2 Monday through Friday; D. M. Ogilvie Co. and downtown Post Office, 10:30 to 4:30, Monday through Friday, and Potters Savings and Loan, 10:30 to 2 daily, except Thursday and Friday when the booth will remain open until 5 p. m. Applications may be obtained at Red Cross headquarters in the Mary Patterson Home also.

Window displays depicting the functions of the program will be featured by the Crook Furniture Co., Moore Furniture Co., Peoples Service Drug Co., Irwin's Northside Pharmacy, Bloor's Pharmacy on E. 5th St., Potters Savings and Loan, and Potters Bank and Trust Co.

The local steering committee which has planned the drive is headed by Mrs. J. Donald Thompson, chairman of volunteers. It also includes Mrs. Alpern, Mrs. Robert Hayes and Mrs. William Belaney, co - chairmen of Gray Ladies; Mrs. Myron Coleman, Mrs. Dennie Singer, Mrs. V. E. McElEldowney and Mrs. Neil Shope. Judge Louis Tobin heads the chapter.

Hancock County participation has been planned by Mrs. Ruth Sprouse, executive secretary, and Mrs. J. A. Bowers and Mrs. Paul McHenry, co - chairmen of volunteers. Fred Baldasare is chapter chairman.

Mrs. Arlene Scotten, executive secretary, is in charge of the Wellsville chapter. The Rev. William H Flurkey is chapter chairman.

MRS. ALPERN stressed that the program is dedicated to giving personal service to patients and pointed out that no bedside nursing or housekeeping duties are required. Aid in comfort and recovery of the sick, injured and handicapped will be extended to patients in East Liverpool City Hospital, East Liverpool Osteopathic Hospital and nursing homes in the community.

Volunteers perform such services as letter writing, reading aloud to patients, arranging flowers, shopping, teaching simple crafts if desired, bringing recreation to juvenile patients, serving as guides for visitors, conveying patients to X-Ray and Laboratory departments in the hospitals and encouraging the special interests of any patient. Volunteers may elect the type of service they choose to perform, Mrs. Alpern said.

Applicants must be willing to donate 50 hours of yearly service and must furnish a statement of their physician's approval that they are in suitable physical condition for service. A special physical examination is not necessary, Mrs. Alpern said.

The instruction program will total 12 hours, including 8 hours spent at the hospital for training by registered nurses and 4 hours attendance at classes in Red Cross orientation. Classes are scheduled tentatively to begin in February.

Capping exercises and the presentation of pins will follow the 12-hour probationary program. The official uniform for women will be the regulation gray cotton dress, while men will wear a gray cotton jacket.

Mrs. Alpern pointed out that the increasing burden on the professional staffs of hospitals and nursing homes today have created a demand for this service, which will free trained personnel for treatment procedures only they can administer.

The Gray Ladies program has been endorsed by the Executive Board of the City Hospital Women's Auxiliary, which provides other types of service for hospital patients and personnel.

Mayor Proclaims Observance

Air Force Reserve Week Awaited

The week starting Monday was designated as "Air Force Reserve Week" by Mayor Bert H. Goodballet when he signed a proclamation commending the Air Reserve.

Looking on are Tech. Sgt. John W. Adway Jr., behind Sgt. Siebenaller, and Tech. Sgt. Charles D. Ward, who are the local Air Force Recruiting officers.

Civic groups or individuals desiring to visit the Reserve facilities at the Youngstown airport may contact the squadron commander by calling Warren FR. 4-1551 or Sgts. Adway and Ward.

In his proclamation, Mayor Goodballet said the Air Force Reserve "helps to manifest our strength and our determination to maintain our national freedom and security and members of the reserve are engaged in programs designed to demonstrate to all people of the world our purpose to uphold and defend the free way of life."

Liquor Department Lists Permit Applicants Of Area

Three city individuals and a veterans' organization have on file with the Ohio Department of Liquor Control applications for new retail permits, according to Richard Crouch, director of the department at Columbus.

American Legion Post 4 has applied for a new D-4 permit for sale to members for on-premises consumption. R. J. Freed and P. Commarata have filed for D-3 permits, sale of wine and spiritous liquor on premises, and Don A. Gruver has filed for a D-5 permit for sale for on-or off premises and for sales until 2:30 a. m.

There are no openings available at present for such permits, the quotas being full — 14 for D-3, and D-5 and 12 for D-4, the report shows.

At Wellsville, N. J. Rivello, Mary L. Thornton and Rose Daddario have applications on file for D-3 permits. The quotas of 5 each for D-3, D-4 and D-5 permits for Wellsville are full.

Frank Howard of East Palestine has on file an application for a D-3 permit at East Palestine.

At Lisbon, American Legion Post 275 has filed an application for a D-4 permit, while D. Guappone and C. Sutcliffe have applications filed for D-3 permits.

Margaret Swaykus and George Rock have filed applications for D-3 permits at Toronto.

There are no applications on file in East Liverpool for D-1 permits — sale of beer on and off premises — or for D-2 permits — sale of malt liquor, wine and bottled cocktails on and off premises.

However, there are 4 D-1 permit openings available to reach the quota of 18, and there are 5 D-2 permit openings available to reach the quota of 27.

At Wellsville, there are openings of one each for D-1 and D-2 permits. The quota is 8 for D-1, and 15 for D-2.

There is one opening for a D-1 permit at East Palestine, openings for 2 D-1 and 3 D-2 permits at Salineville, one each at Summitville; 2 D-1 and one D-2 at Lisbon and 3 D-1 permits at Hanoverton. Rogers had openings of one each.

There is a D-2 permit opening at Irondale and Stratton and one each for D-1 and D-2 permits at Empire. There are 2 D-1 and D-2 openings at Toronto.

The effective date of the report was Jan. 4. Such reports are issued periodically to inform applicants and the public of the priority list of applications.

There are no quota restrictions on C-1 or C-2 permits, commonly called beer and wine carry-out permits.

Women's CD Unit To Urge Shelters In City Campaign

The Women's Civil Defense Council will participate in the national "Pilot Program" sponsored by the Federal CD Administration, which urges construction of shelters for use in case of atomic attack, the group decided at a meeting Thursday night in City Hall.

Mrs. Luella Myers, president, Mrs. Evelyn Balser and Mrs. Betty Kilmer will meet in the CD office at City Hall Wednesday to assemble material for "pilot project kits."

The group decided to send an invitation to the Future Nurses Club at the High School and student nurses at City Hospital to attend the Feb. 17 meeting, when a new Red Cross film on rescue breathing will be shown. The group received a commendation for the program on home preparedness which it presented recently for the Business and Professional Women's Club.

Mrs. Mildred Springer reported two CD films have been shown at Westgate School — "A is for Atom" and "Self-Preservation." The group voted to assist in the Cancer Fund drive in April. Lunch was served by Mrs. Springer and Mrs. Balser.

Collegion Given Stay In Serving Jail Term

LISBON — A fourth defendant in a Leetonia delinquency case involving three other young men was sentenced Thursday to six weeks in the County Jail but was permitted to remain free until summer because he is attending college.

However, Juvenile Judge Louis Tobin fined Tom Blackwood, 20, $250 and required him to post $750 bond pending sentence.

The three others are already serving similar terms for contributing to the delinquency of a 15-year-old Leetonia girl who was sent to the Girls Industrial School.

Confident Living

Dr. Norman Vincent Peale

The Kind Of Person You're Going To Be

I don't know how many people will be reading this who saw Halley's Comet when it flashed through the skies back in 1910. But those of us who did see that amazing phenomenon will never forget it. I was a boy then living in Norwood, Ohio, a beautiful city which is part of Metropolitan Cincinnati. We resided at 3934 Spencer Ave. in a house that rented for $35 a month. The dollar was really a dollar in those days — and my father who was a preacher had very few of those dollars. The time to pay the rent was always a time for family conferences and prayer sessions. But, somehow, God did always provide and my memories of that house are wonderful ones.

Dr. Peale

HALLEY'S COMET is one of the most vivid of these boyhood recollections. I can see it yet, zooming dramatically across the sky, its long tail blazing behind it. I was 14 then and, when my father told me the comet would come back in another 75 years, I asked, "Dad, do you think I'll be here to see it?"

"Well," he said, "I don't really know. But I don't want you to worry about whether you can hang on long enough to see Halley's Comet again. I want you to be concerned about the kind of man you are going to be in the course of your life however long or short it may be."

Not only our fathers but our teachers as well were interested in the kind of people we youngsters were going to be.

Down the street from our house was the old Williams Ave. school. I can still see, in my mind's eye, old Mr. Reeves, the enormous man who taught the fifth grade. He probably wasn't that old or that huge, but to my boyish mind he was a giant. And I can still remember the forcible application of his hand to the seat of my trousers.

Unlike most modern pedagogues, he practiced the art of spanking —not because he was sadistic but for the good of the student. And I feel that any of us who studied under him are no worse today for this approach. Mr. Reeves was a man and he was in the business of making men.

THERE ARE other things he did, too, which might shock modern educators. In the midst of a lesson, he would thunder out "Silence!" And, when he said "Silence," there was silence, beyond question. Then he would go to the blackboard, pick up a piece of chalk and write in huge letters, "CAN'T". After this, he would turn around and glare at us.

We knew what to do. With united voice we would chant "Strike the 'T' off the 'CAN'T.'" Then with powerful stroke he would erase the 'T' leaving the word, "CAN."

"Let that be a lesson to you," he would tell us. "You are children of God living in free America and, with God's help, you can overcome any difficulties." Then he would add a phrase I've never forgotten. "You can when you think you can."

Most of us did overcome many difficulties and I feel very fortunate to have been one of his boys. When I think about my life in Cincinnati, I am impressed by the fact that two things seem to have produced the results which I hope to see in my own children.

The first was a school system in which fair but real discipline was not sacrificed to pedagogical experimentation. And, even more important was a home in which there were parents who themselves lived a life of rectitude and honor and who knew how to pass on a sense of self-discipline to their children.

When we fail our children in these two essentials we are depriving them of their basic heritage. Parents have much to do with what a child becomes — and the kind of person he is going to be.

Parents can develop a child into a strong person by how well they apply discipline. And a child wants discipline. To deprive him of it is to start him towards becoming the kind of person you don't want him to be. We must ever remember that discipline is a fact of life. Disciplined people are strong people.

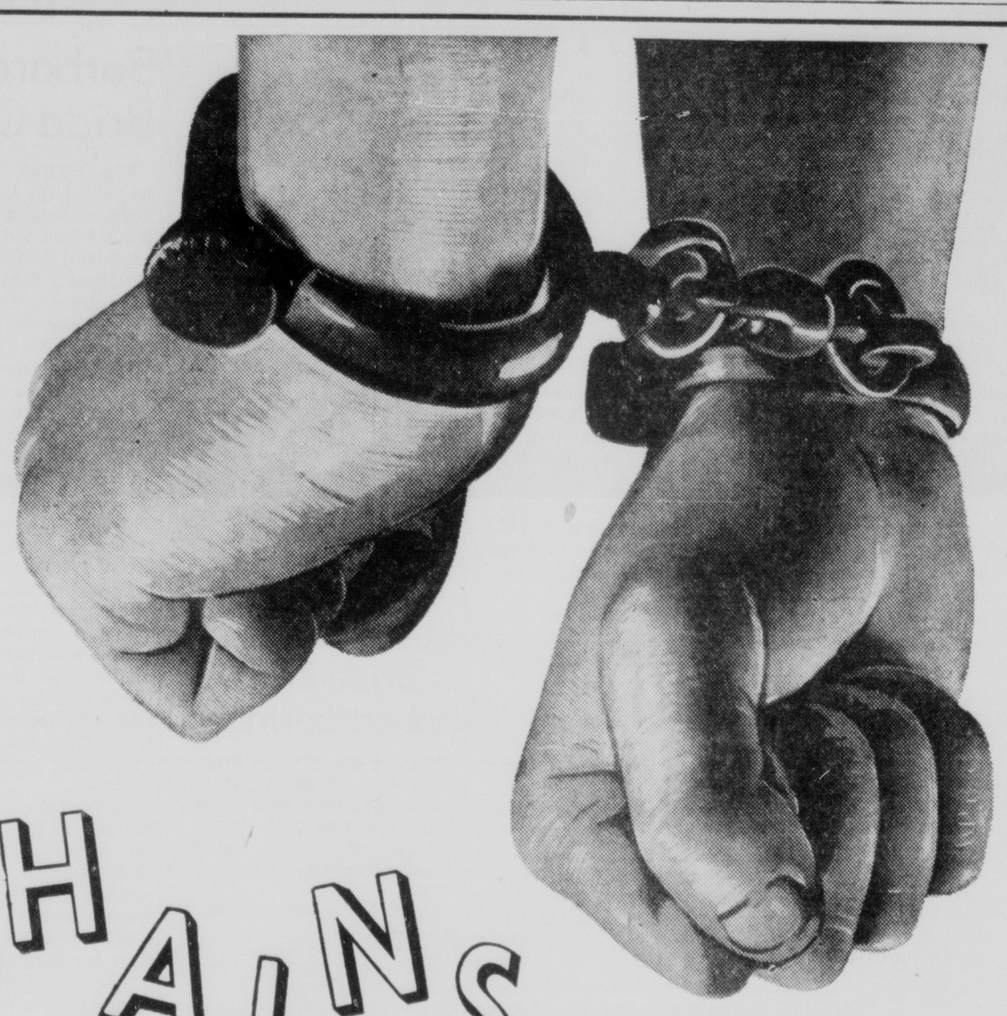
ST. CLAIR AT WALNUT STREETS

James E. Hunton, Minister



These hands might have painted the world's greatest masterpiece. These hands might have played faultlessly the most difficult concerto. These hands might have mixed a compound that would destroy disease. These hands might have been raised in blessing over a trusting mankind.

Instead they are chained. Somewhere, somehow, they failed. Perhaps they reached over a counter and stealthily snatched a jewel. Perhaps they searched a safe and took what other hands had worked for. Perhaps they held the gun that wiped out a life. Somewhere they went wrong. Somewhere they failed.

Hands do not act by themselves. Personalities control them—personalities swayed by impulses and convictions, good and bad. The Church, your Church, is waiting to guide hands, minds, hearts and lives. Here good impulses, right convictions are born and nurtured. Here, in God's House, hands learn to move aright to find life's work, unchained and triumphant.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . . ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

MISS LYNN FOUTTS
Her Engagement Announced.

Miss Lynn Foutts Is Bride-Elect Of Robert Springer

Mr. and Mrs. William Foutts of Kelly Ave., Glenmoor, announce the engagement of their daughter, Miss Lynn Foutts, to Robert E. Springer, son of Mr. and Mrs. Gus R. Springer of John St., Glenmoor.

The date for the wedding has not been set.

Barbara J. Derda Becomes Bride Of Roy Sanford Cave

Miss Barbara Joan Derda observed all the familiar traditions when she became the bride of Roy Sanford Cave last Saturday morning at 11 o'clock in the rectory of St. Aloysius Catholic Church.

Fr. Anthony Esposito, assistant pastor, officiated for the double-ring ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Derda of Kenilworth, Newell, and her husband is the son of Mrs. Craig Comer of Luray, Va.

Given in marriage by her father, she wore a street - length gown of white chiffon. The fitted bodice was fashioned with a high neckline featuring satin trim, tiny buttons down the back and three-quarter puff sleeves.

A satin cummberbund, forming a large back bow, highlighted the bouffant skirt. Her shoulder-length veil of imported silk illusion, trimmed with sequins, was attached to a Julliette cap edged with satin bows. Lace mitts completed her ensemble.

She carried a white prayer book, the gift of her parents, topped with an arrangement of white orchids, stephanotis and satin streamers. Her jewelry included a charm diamond necklace, the gift of the bridegroom, and crystal earrings borrowed from her mother.

Miss Mary Jane Derda was her sister's maid of honor and another sister, Miss Susan Ann Derda, was bridesmaid. They wore chiffon gowns, designed identically to that of the bride, in poudre blue and deep blue.

Blue feathered hats complemented their attire and they carried Colonial bouquets of pink and yellow roses and carnations with matching satin streamers. They wore gold crosses inserted with small diamonds, gifts of the bride.

Lawrence Roy of Martins Ferry, cousin of the bride, was best man and Joseph Graham of Newell was usher. They received cuff links and tie clips from the bridegroom.

Mrs. Helen Zagula and Mrs. Ann Derda, grandmothers of the bride, were presented with corsages of yellow tea roses and Mrs. Mildred Abrams, godmother of the bride, a corsage of white carnations and stephanotis.

MRS. R. S. CAVE
Observes All Traditions.

A reception was held at the home of the bride's parents. A three-tier cake topped with a miniature bridal ornament centered the buffet table. The home was decorated with white mums, daffodils and ferns.

Aides were Mrs. Josephine Zagula, Mrs. Abrams, Mrs. Delma Covert and Mrs. Mary Graham. They were presented with matching necklaces and earrings, gifts of the bride.

The couple left for a two-week undisclosed honeymoon. For traveling, the bride wore a black wool sheath with white accessories and her bridal orchids.

Other out - of - town guests were from Columbiana, Weirton, New Cumberland, Charles Town, Chester and East Liverpool.

A congratulatory telegram was read from Valentine Biela of Hayworth, Calif., godfather of the bride.

She is a 1955 graduate of Wells High School in Newell and was graduated in 1959 from the City Hospital Nurses Training School, where she was employed as a surgical nurse.

Humorous Skit Presented For Junior Women's Club

A humorous skit on parliamentary procedure highlighted the meeting of the Junior Women's Club Thursday night at the YMCA.

Mrs. Gerald Goodballet, parliamentarian, was program chairman and the takeoff on a TV quiz show was entitled, "Club Women Make Up Your Mind."

The cast included Mrs. Edwin Bayley, quiz master; Mrs. Goodballet, announcer; Mrs. John Morgan, guest panelist, and Mrs. Stanley Ward, moderator.

Mrs. Joseph Robbins, chaplain, conducted devotions on the theme, "They Serve Mankind."

Roll call was answered with thoughts on "What happened to last New Year's resolutions?"

Mrs. Howard Claypool, president, was in charge of business. Reports were heard from Mrs. Clark, secretary pro-tem, and Mrs. Howard Treleven, treasurer.

A communication was read from the Red Cross, asking for volunteers for the Gray Ladies Corps.

To reach the 120 points necessary to make the Ohio Federation honor roll, the group will send an outside subscription to the Buckeye Magazine and contribute to the Christian University of Japan, an OFWC project.

Mrs. Lawrence Keeper, program chairman, announced the annual "Guest Night is scheduled March 17 at the Trinity United Presbyterian Church with the Annie Kell Friendship Class in charge of refreshments.

Mrs. G. Richard Jones reported on the Cerebral Palsy Nursery School.

Mrs. Bayley, chairman of the "pinkie puppet" project, announced the group — the Sycamore Twig of the City Hospital Auxiliary — will meet the third Monday each month to make them for the hospital nursery.

Copies of the magazine, "The Intelligent Women's Guide to Art," were distributed. The reference booklets are the first in a series they will receive from the General Federation of Women's Clubs as part of a new educational program.

Mrs. J. Wallace Crooks, a member, is chairman of the citywide campaign for the March of Dimes.

Notes of thanks were read by Mrs. Morgan from the Community Rescue Mission and the Columbiana County Retarded Children's Council.

Mrs. Ernest Bates, ways and means chairman, announced the group will sponsor a public card party Monday night at St. Aloysius Parochial School Hall. Tickets may be purchased at the door.

An invitation was read from the Chester Junior Women's Club to participate in the dancing classes planned for the near future.

Refreshments were served 30 by Mrs. Crooks, chairman, Mrs. Bayard Price, Mrs. Eugene Gerwick, Miss Betsy Eunson, Mrs. William Martin and Mrs. Russell Hall.

A gold and pink theme highlighted the appointments at the buffet table with the president pouring. An artificial floral centerpiece flanked by lighted tapers in gold candelabra formed the decorative note.

Miss Mary Ellen Summers, home economist, will give a demonstration Feb. 18 at the Ohio Power Co. Mrs. Gerwick will be chairman.

THE ALL-NEW 1960 BEAUTYREST
...with more buoyant firmness than ever before

New resilience! New firmness! 12% greater spring support! And this newest and most restful of mattresses actually costs least to own!

New power-packed springs, pocketed under compression, have added 12% more firmness. And it is buoyant firmness . . . best for your back, your comfort, your rest.

In torture tests made by the United States Testing Co., Beautyrest lasted 3 times longer than the next best mattress. This means Beautyrest costs least to own. Order yours at once.

$79.50 Normal Firm or Extra Firm Box Spring $79.50

Made only by
SIMMONS

Ordinary mattress is made with about 200-300 springs. Wired together, they sag together under your weight. When you push down on one, you push down on all. They're not free to push up and correctly support the shape of your body. This "sagging support" is bad for your back, your comfort, your rest.

Beautyrest mattress is made with over 800 separate springs. Not wired together, they can't sag together. Each is free to push up under you. Together they firmly support the weight and shape of your whole body. In the new Beautyrest springs have been power-packed to give 12% more firmness.

Potters Rout Central, 71-38; Cunningham Nets 27 Points

Third Win At M-A

By BOB DUFFY
Review Sports Editor

East Liverpool got off to a fast start at the opening whistle and after 32 minutes of basketball Friday night at Memorial Auditorium walked off the floor with an easy 71-38 victory over Steubenville Central Catholic.

It marked the third straight win on the home court for the Potters. Some 900 fans looked on. Central dropped its sixth game in nine starts.

Erratic passing, a flock of jump balls and 40 personal fouls marked much of the action.

Kenny Cunningham maintained his scoring poise throughout the game, netting 27 points. The sharpshooting junior last night matched his output of 27 collected in the first game against Alliance.

CUNNINGHAM, who led the Potters in scoring last year, now has hit 20 or better in the last four games. He shows 93 points in his last four appearances.

Having mastered a neat jump shot, Cunningham sent eight field goals whistling through the nets and displayed some accurate foul shooting with 11 out of 13.

East Liverpool scored 14 straight points before the Crusaders could ring the bell.

The game was 6½ minutes old before Steubenville scored its first two points, with Ross Monaco hitting on two fouls.

Steubenville's attack picked up in the second quarter to produce 19 points and the Potters went to the dressing room leading 33-21.

EAST LIVERPOOL kept adding to the margin in the third period and when the quarter had ended was on top, 49-31.

Coach Jim Harris cleaned the bench in the fourth quarter, but still the score kept mounting.

The Potters had Steubenville on the run from the start and after the first minute and a half the Potters had fired in 7 quick points.

Each of the starters shared in the first quarter scoring.

Behind Cunningham in the point parade was Bob Mackall, who dropped in 16 and worked nicely under the boards with Ray Bigelow.

Bigelow broke into the double figures again Friday night with 11 points, while Phil Chan added six and Kenny Miller five.

Harris made a wise move in sending Mackall under the boards. The high - jumping Mackall turned in a fine job in the rebounding department along with help from 6-foot-6 Bigelow.

Central Coach Francis Sebring substituted freely throughout the contest, but couldn't find the right combination.

TOP MAN in the scoring department for Central was Monaco with 11 points. Tom Erosovich was next in line with nine.

Central looked sloppy at times with its ball handling and gave the ball away on numerous occasions.

Trailing 18-2 at the end of the first quarter, Central began to find the range in the second quarter, but could only come within eight points of the Potters.

East Liverpool showed a 12-point margin to open the third period. Again Central came within nine points at 37-28, but never got any closer.

Cunningham led the third-quarter drive with seven points, to carry the Potters in front 49-31.

With Cunningham tossing in seven points and Mackall six East Liverpool had little trouble maintaining its spread in the final eight minutes.

The Potters only play one contest again next week, entertaining New Philadelphia at Memorial Auditorium.

East Liverpool's reserves dropped their fourth game in eight starts when Steubenville Central came out on top with a 50-25 win.

The young Potters trailed all the way, with Central on top 11-4, 27-14 and 36-20.

Fornsagilo topped the Crusaders with 21 points, while Mike Geon's eight were high for the Blue and White.

JU Halts Stanton's Streak

Jackets Rally Late To Gain 56-53 Decision

RICHMOND — All winning streaks must come to an end sometime, and Stanton Local, ranked 10th among the Class "A" schools in Ohio, had its string snapped here Friday night.

When the final buzzer had sounded Class "AA" Jefferson Union had pulled a 56-53 surprise over the high-flying Stanton five.

After losing its first two starts of the season, Stanton had won nine contests in a row and gained state-wide recognition with its victory string.

Stanton lost the contest in the waning minutes. The Irondale five had a four-point lead with 1½ minutes to play, but Kugler and Dickerson fired in a field goal each to tie the count at 53-53 with less than a minute remaining.

Kugler was fouled by a Stanton Local player in an attempt to get possession and tossed in two foul shots for a 55-53 lead with only seconds remaining.

Before the contest ended Dickerson was fouled and made one of two charity tosses for the three-point margin of victory.

Stanton led 13-9 at the end of the first period, but Jefferson Union went out ahead, 31-25 at halftime. A ding-dong third quarter followed and Stanton cut the lead to two points, 43-41.

Big Don Spires topped the Irons again with 21 markers, coming on nine field goals and three fouls.

Kugler was the big thorn in Stanton's side with 25 points. Dickerson added 13 points.

Stanton lost Bill Chetock on fouls late in the fourth quarter.

The victory by Jefferson Union squared the series for the season between the two schools. In an earlier game played at Irondale, Stanton walked away with a 76-51 decision.

Stanton's reserve team picked up a 37-25 win in the preliminary game.

South Side Wins, 68-35; Ashcroft Gets 28 Points

South Side's Rich Ashcroft popped in 28 points and sparked the Rams to a 68-35 conquest over West Alexander in a WPIAL, Section 15 contest Friday night at West Alexander.

The southpaw senior, accustomed to the higher brackets in point-producing, pumped in eight goals and hit for 12 of 14 free throws for one of his best nights of the campaign.

Coach Dave Nichol's Rams, sporting a 5-1 league record, are in second place in the standings behind powerful Bridgeville. The Rams show an overall record of 8-7.

West Alexander fell behind under South Side's barrage in the second quarter when the Rams produced 17 points. The South Siders made the victory a decisive one by scoring 22 in a big fourth period.

West Alexander is 0-6 in the Class A league standings.

Jim Laughlin and Dan Frasier also scored in the double figures for South Side. Laughlin finished with 12 while Frasier hit six. Cecil Frazier added nine to the assault.

McAdoo scored 15 to lead the losers.

In the preliminary, Chuck Schmidt canned 22 points and Norman Cain registered 10 to lead South Side's reserves to a 50-20 victory over West Alexander's reserves.

Salem Triumphs, 63-56, Over Niles For 8th Win

NILES — Third - ranked Salem was forced to rally in the final period to defeat stubborn Niles High, 63-56, here Friday night.

Coach John Cabas' Quakers were behind for the first three quarters and trailed by six points heading into the final one. They outscored Niles by one field goal and three free throws for their eighth victory in nine games.

Salem's lone season loss was to Youngstown East, 41-40.

Southpaw Dave Hunter, an All-Ohio candidate, sparked the powerful Quakers with 20 points on nine goals and a pair of fouls. Dan Krichbaum added 12 and Jim Lehwald 11.

Former Columbiana High star Ray Baltz led Niles with 26 points on 13 field goals.

Lisbon's Losing Streak Continues In 58-41 Loss

LISBON — Lisbon High's sagging Blue Devils lost their seventh straight and eighth game of the season Friday night in being jolted by visiting East Palestine, 58-41.

Coach Gary Pike's Blue Devils, 1-8 for the campaign, remained winless in Tri-County League action with an 0-6 mark.

East Palestine found the flu-striken Lisbon squad easy prey as the Bulldogs roared out to a 16-6 first quarter lead and were in command the remainder of the distance.

The victory was East Palestine's seventh in 10 games. The Bulldogs are in second place in the loop with a 7-3 record. Minerva is the loop leader and is yet unbeaten.

Lisbon made the game a close one for three quarters, but faded fast in the final period as the taller Palestine cagers hit the range consistently.

Jerry Bush scored 15 points to top the Palestine assault while Willis Woods and Hartshorn each dropped in 11.

Charles Faust sparked Lisbon with 12 points. The Blue Devils mustered only 13 field goals against their league rivals.

East Palestine also won the preliminary, 44-28, over the Lisbon reserves.

Wellsville Eyes Ninth In Row At Steubenville

Highly-touted Wellsville High lays its 8-1 season record on the line and will seek a repeat victory over Steubenville Central Catholic tonight in one of four games involving area squads.

Coach Jack McDevitt's 12th ranked Tigers — riding an eight game victory streak — also will be out to snap the Steubenville club's unbeaten record on the Central boards.

The preliminary will get underway at 7, while tipoff for the varsity encounter will be approximately 8:15 in the small confines of the Catholic Community Center in downtown Steubenville. The center seats about 400 fans.

Wellsville dumped the Crusaders earlier at Beacom Memorial gym, 68-46.

Central has triumphed in three of its games this season and each victory has come at home. The Crusaders have lost two games this week, to Toronto Tuesday and East Liverpool Friday night.

In other action tonight, Randolph visits United Local, Benwood Union battles Chester High on the Chester planks and underdog Sebring swings against Salem at the Columbiana County school.

NFL Shelves Problem Of Electing New Czar

By WHITNEY MARTIN

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — National Football League club owners may take a "let's call the whole thing off" attitude, retiring to lick their wounds and await a more fruitful day to settle the big questions of a new commissioner and expansion.

They took one more futile stab at resolving the commissioner issue on the third day of their meeting Friday.

Then, they shelved the problem to take up minor business.

The commissionership campaign, which saw 14 ballots the first two days, failed to reach a vote Friday.

The last vote, taken Thursday, showed Marshall Leahy, the San Francisco barrister, with seven votes; Don Kellett, Baltimore general manager, with four, and one abstension.

Art Rooney of the Pittsburgh Steelers, obviously irked at the impasse, tossed seven more names into the already well-filled hopper of candidates in the hope one might touch a uniformly responsive chord. Nothing happened.

The seven were Samuel Weiss, Pittsburgh judge and former NFL official; Ray Bennigsen, former Chicago Cardinal executive and now general manager of Sportsman's Park race track in Chicago; Chilly Walsh, ex-general manager of the Cleveland Rams; Frank Sullivan, Philadelphia attorney working on the players' benefit program; Gov. A. B. (Happy) Chandler of Kentucky, former baseball commissioner; Nick Kerbaway, former Detroit Lions' general manager and now in the same capacity with the Detroit basketball Pistons; and Atty. Don Miller of Notre Dame's famed four horsemen.

After three full days of ponderous deliberations, the 12 club owners reached one momentous decision. They voted to permit nylon cleats with metal tips. They did agree to take time off from their mad dash to nowhere Friday night to attend the opening of a dog track.

Rooney also made another bid to settle the dispute by urging that Acting Commissioner Austin H. Gunsel be given a one-year trial contract.

Betsy Rawls led the Ladies Professional Golf Assn. in money winnings in 1959 with $26,774 earned in 26 tournaments.

Sebring Trips Columbiana

COLUMBIANA — Jerry Flickinger, a sharpshooting guard, scored 21 points in leading Sebring to a 69-48 Tri-County League victory over Columbiana High's Clippers here Friday night.

Sebring now stands in third place in the loop with a 4-2 mark and a 4-5 record for the campaign. The defeat was Columbiana's fifth in 10 games while the Clippers are 2-4 in the league.

Flickinger flipped in 10 goals and a foul to spark Sebring's attack. Columbiana led after the first period, 14-9, but didn't maintain the pace and was behind at halftime, 26-25. Sebring pulled far ahead in the second half.

Rich Harrold bagged 18 points to lead Coach Ray Berryman's Clippers in scoring.

Columbiana's reserves triumphed in the preliminary, 51-44, over Sebring's jayvees.

Poland Rallies To Nip Leetonia In 77-73 Win

LEETONIA — Coach Len Batcha's Leetonia Bears had an upset in the making for almost three periods, but Poland came back strong in the fourth quarter to grab a 77-73 victory here Friday night.

The loss marked Leetonia's sixth straight of the season.

The Bears jumped off to a 25-16 lead at the end of the first quarter, but Poland battled back to knot the count at 40-40 by the time the first half ended.

Leetonia remained on top in a wild third period, 54-53, but Poland grabbed a quick lead in the fourth quarter and hung on for the victory.

Poland couldn't stop the brilliant scoring of Leetonia's Lee Radler, who kept up his 20-point-plus-average by tossing in 28 markers.

Hunneke was the big gun for the visitors with 25 points, while teammates Zimmer and Heath netted 18 and 16, respectively.

Poland made it a twin-killing by whipping Leetonia's reserves, 47-21.

Rocky Colavita Asks For Boost Of $12,000

CLEVELAND (AP) — Rocky Colavito, Cleveland's outfield slugger, wants $45,000 on his 1960 contract, and that's about $12,000 more than he's been offered, General Manager Frank Lane disclosed Friday.

Rocky earned about $28,500 last season when he finished in a tie for the American League's home run leadership, but his batting average was down 46 points from 1958.

Chicago Signs Pierce

CHICAGO (AP) — Lefty Billy Pierce, the oldest White Sox player in point of service, today signed a 1960 contract at the same pay as last year, estimated at $38,000. Pierce, 32, had a 14-15 record last year.

Reds Sign 2 More

CINCINNATI (AP) — Brooks Lawrence, veteran righthander who won 7 games and lost 12 last season, has signed up for 1960 along with rookie righthander Duane Richards who had a 16-10 mark last year with Savannah of the Sally League. The Reds announced the two had signed major league baseball contracts Friday.

Beavers Nip Newell As Chester Ends Losing Streak

Panthers Hit At Foul Line For Victory

Chester High's Panthers snapped a four-game losing streak by edging arch-rival New Cumberland, 48-40, Friday night at the Chester gymnasium.

The Panthers, now 5-6 for the campaign, cashed in at the foul line to gain a repeat victory over their Hancock County rivals. The Panthers also triumphed in an earlier game, 48-46.

Opportunity knocked six times in the final period for New Cumberland, but the Raiders failed to answer and missed a half-dozen free throws, any one of which could have deadlocked the score.

Meanwhile, the Panthers dropped in 11 of 14 free throws in the fourth quarter to gain the decision. Coach Max Tuttle's charges were outscored by New Cumberland from the field, 17 to 16.

The Cumberland quint led only one time the entire game, 7-5, before Chester moved ahead to an eight-point halftime margin.

The game was exceptionally close in the fourth period and New Cumberland missed chance after chance to move ahead on charity tosses. The Panthers, with the Raiders pressing, drew a host of free throws themselves to settle the spirited battle.

The aggressive Raiders lost center Ron Haynes and guard Fred Huff by the foul route, while Chester's Blaine Pinney, 6-2 center, also committed five personals.

The Tuttlemen came through wtih a balanced attack in ending their losing skein as Bob Shaffer topped the scoring with 12 points. John Steele and Bill Mayhew each added 10 and Gary Daugherty six and Pinney nine.

Charlie Miller's 15 and Huff's 13 paced New Cumberland. Chester's Jayvees triumphed in the preliminary, 40-20, over Cumberland's reserves.

Pender Wins Title From 'Sugar Ray'

By BOB HOOBING
Associated Press Sports Writer

BOSTON (AP)—Paul Pender, an articulate ex - fireman who denounces the evils of boxing and three times quit the ring, today rules as the world middleweight champion—limited version.

Pender took the final trappings off Sugar Ray Robinson in a 15-round split decision Friday night after the National Boxing Assn. earlier had stripped the veteran New Yorker of his crown in 46 states.

The two camps differed as to the site of the rematch, written into the contract with a 90-day limit, should Pender win.

Robinson's manager, George Gainford, spoke forcefully of his conviction that Sugar Ray had won.

"We'll have the return in New York if Madison Square Garden will have it," he added. "They won the title here, and I don't think it's fair for them to have the return here too."

Naturally, Pender, 29, resident of suburban Brookline, prefers his home grounds but added: "I'm ready for him, definitely, any time, any place."

His title is recognized only in Massachusetts and New York.

While the 10,608 Boston Garden fans knew Pender in his moment of triumph, many a member of the national television audience wanted to know who was this brash upstart who unseated the ageless Sugar Ray.

Well-spoken enough to be mistaken for a young business executive, Pender is given away by a twice-broken nose plus gnarled hands which shattered on him five years ago. It happened during a battle with current NBA - recognized champ Gene Fullmer, costing him the decision and almost ending his fistic pursuits.

Long convinced professional boxing has no attraction but the dollar, Pender prepared for the Robinson match with the oath: "This definitely is my last comeback."

After more than a decade in the pro ranks, Paul had a good pay night. His share was 20 per cent of the $85,010 gate and 15 per cent of the $75,000 TV money. Robinson picked up 42½ per cent of the gate plus 75 per cent of the TV take.

Cautiously jabbing and moving away from Robinson, 39, in the early stages Friday night, Pender made Sugar miss long right hands labeled kayo, then became more forceful in the late stages. He landed effectively on Robinson's head while protecting his own.

Robinson landed his most solid blows to Pender's body.

Judges Joe Santoro and John Norton voted 147-138 and 148-142 in favor of Pender on the 10-point must system. Referee Joe Zapustas called it Robinson, 146-142.

Durbin Nets 27 Points In 5th Victory

Beaver Local High dropped in the points when they were most needed and gained revenge for a previous defeat in trimming Newell, 75-70, in a close battle Friday night on the Beaver Local boards.

Paced by the rebounding work of Dick Barnhart and Bill Reed and the point-producing of Mike Durbin, Coach Jack Frontone's Beavers rolled to their fifth victory in 11 games for the campaign.

Newell's Vikings put up a stiff battle and came from behind to tie the score at 57-57 late in the final period, but the Beavers pulled away and maintained their lead.

Durbin, 6-foot, 2-inch junior, gunned in 27 points for individual honors for the evening and kept Newell's defense loose with a variety of drive-in and jump shots. He collected a dozen field goals and sank five of seven fouls. Eight of his points came in the close fourth period.

Barnhart, 5-11½ junior, and Reed picked off the rebounds to keep the Beaver attack in momentum. Barnhart snared 19 and Reed 11 and each played outstanding floor games.

Coach John Robison's Vikings were behind at each quarter mark and suffered their seventh defeat in 10 games.

Ronnie Noland sparked the Vikings in their bid to repeat over the Beavers and scored 18 points on six goals and six of 11 free throws. Three other starters hit double figures as Bob Stine bagged 15, Mickey Staley 13 and Larry Hutton 11.

The Beavers' Thurm Allen was a foul casualty, but rimmed 11 points before leaving in the final period.

The Beavers tackle tough South Side in a Thursday night encounter next week on the South Side boards.

In the preliminary, the Beaver Local reserves decisioned the Newell reserves, 26-22. Beaver Local's Jayvee coach, Floyd Suarez, missed the action because of illness.

Gains Fifth Straight Win In Section 8

Midland High's defending sectional champions applied a defensive stranglehold on outclassed Hopewell and coasted to a 65-19 triumph Friday night before a fair-sized crowd at the Midland gymnasium.

Coach George Hamilton's hotshot Leopards nailed their fifth straight Section 8 WPIAL loop victory to remain undefeated in that category while the rout was Midland's 15th in 16 season games.

Midland's lone defeat was to New Castle, 61-53, but the loss is not considered in the Section 8 race.

Operating a tight man-for-man defense, the Leopards limited Hopewell to a mere eight field goals and raced to a 14-0 lead in the opening quarter before Hopewell could retaliate with a fielder.

Midland maintained its pace in the ensuing periods for a 33-9 halftime lead and an overwhelming 51-17 margin after three periods.

The Leopard reserves saw plenty of action and proved their defensive ability by holding Hopewell to only two points in the final quarter.

Midland's fast-breaking attack resulted in a well-balanced scoring effort as three regulars collected double figures. Two Hopewell regulars — Greco and Troynar — failed to score.

Big Movie Smith, 6-3 center, and Carl Anderson, a junior flash, led Midland's point parade with 13 each. Gene Lake added 10 on four goals and a pair of fouls. Barney Silverman collected seven and Steve Yetso nine.

Hopewell, without the services of another regular and the team's leading scorer in Bell, was topped by Karamarkovich's seven points.

In the preliminary, the Midland reserves also remained unbeaten in sectional action by lacing the Hopewell Jayvees, 52-31, as Frank Aloi scored 17 points for the winners.

Robertson Eyes Record As Cincy Meets Dukes

By DON WEISS
Associated Press Sports Writer

Cincinnati's Bearcats, with Oscar Robertson aiming for the first of two big records he should nail within the next 10 days, play at Duquesne tonight in a bid to hold their ranking as the country's best college basketball team over onrushing Bradley.

It may take the Big O at his point-making best to overcome the renewed credentials tossed at the Bearcats by second-ranked Bradley in the Braves' 86-65 rout of tough Notre Dame at Chicago Stadium Friday night.

Robertson's first target is the major college three-year scoring record of 2,538 points set by Frank Selvy of Furman in 1954. Oscar needs 46 to set a new one.

At the same time, All-America Oscar is just 95 points away from breaking the all-time career scoring mark for major college players of 2,587 points set in four seasons by Wake Forest's Dickie Hemric in 1955.

After tonight, Cincinnati plays The Citadel at Cincinnati Jan. 29 and Drake at Cincinnati Feb. 1. According to Robertson's current pace of 37.9 points a game, he should break the Selvy record either tonight or next Friday against The Citadel, and the Hemric mark against Drake.

Tied in with Robertson's individual performances is the hot duel btween Cincinnati and Bradley, both of the Missouri Valley Conference, for the No. 1 national ranking.

Both have a 13-1 record with a victory and a loss to the other. The Bearcats spilled Bradley at Cincinnati 86-71 in December before Bradley rocketed up to the No. 2 ranking with a 91-90 victory at its Peoria, Ill., court last Saturday.

Seventh-ranked Utah, the only other top 10 team in action, kept on Utah State's heels in the Skyline Conference race with a 76-69 victory over Brigham Young. It gave the Utes a 4-1 Skyline mark and a 14-2 overall record.

Lowellville Rolls 67-49 At Fairfield

FAIRFIELD — Unbeaten Lowellville — Ohio's seventh - ranked Class A cage club — handily trimmed Fairfield-Waterford's Rebels, 67-49, here Friday night.

Lowellville gained its 10th consecutive victory in easy fashion after exploding for 17 points in the third period to leave Fairfield-Waterford far behind.

The defeat was the seventh straight for the Rebels of Coach Bing Newton. Fairfield has won two games.

Phil Genova scored 19 points to lead the classy Lowellville squad, while Camp tallied 13 and McCarty 11.

Chuck Olnhausen topped the Rebels with 17 points. Clarence Kannal added 14 to the 14-goal attack.

Buffalo Seen Holding Last Continental Spot

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — The community-owned Buffalo Bisons, minor league baseball's biggest drawing card, today appeared to have the Continental League's last available franchise all but wrapped up.

Club directors cleared the last major hurdle Friday night by approving a 15-year lease on Civic Stadium, a 40,000-seat football arena now being remodeled for baseball.

The Bisons will play their International League schedule there this year. The stadium would then be available to the Continental League club for the league's proposed start in 1961.

"We anticipate no difficulty now in granting Buffalo a franchise," said Continental League founder Bill Shea in New York when informed of the lease.

1,600 Of Ohio Tourney Tickets Allowed Public

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Only 1,600 of the 13,497 seats in Ohio State's St. John Arena will be available to the general public for the Ohio High School Basketball Tournament March 25-26.

And Commissioner W. J. McConnell said he expects the demand to be 10 times greater than the supply.

McConnell outlined the procedure for ordering the ducats, which will be sold by mail only. All the orders will go into a barrel, with the lucky ones being drawn at 2 p. m. Feb. 25.

Only season tickets, good for all four sessions of the state meet, will be available. McConnell set it up like this:

No consideration will be given to orders postmarked prior to Feb. 13, orders for more than two season tickets in any one envelope, or orders for anything other than season tickets.

The envelope must be addressed to the Ohio High School Athletic Assn., 4146 N. High St., Columbus 14, Ohio; be plainly marked on the address side "Season Ticket order"; include payment in full for tickets ordered at the rate of $6 for each season ticket; and contain a self-addressed and stamped return envelope.

Checks or money orders must be made payable to the Ohio High School Athletic Assn. Cash will not be accepted.

Two Class A games are scheduled at the March 25 afternoon session, with two CLASS AA games that night. The Class A championship tilt is the afternoon of March 26, the Class AA finals that night.

McConnell said season ticket sales would absorb all evening session ducats, but that some for the afternoon Class A games might be available following the drawing.

Eastern Stars Beat West As Wilt Nets 23

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—"I think we had more pride and determination, and someone gave us a lift every time we needed it."

That was Coach Red Auerbach's view of the East's 125-115 victory over the West Friday night in the annual National Basketball Assn. All-Star Game.

"First it was Bill Sharman, then (Richie) Guerin, and finally (Tom) Gola who came through when the game was getting uncomfortable," Auerbach said.

Ed Macauley of St. Louis, the West coach, named the same three players as the men who pulled it out for the East.

But for consistency and over-all performance the East had one big man, rookie Wilt (The Stilt) Chamberlain who won the most valuable player award by scoring 23 points, getting 25 rebounds, and blocking 4 shots. He played only 30 minutes.

Sharman, a back-court star for Boston, sent the East into a permanent lead in the second quarter when he hit on five of his one-hand jump shots.

After the half-time intermission, with the East ahead 58-51, Guerin of New York scored 8 quick points while spurring the East to a 19-point lead. Then the West cut the lead to 6 points. Late in the third quarter Gola got hot, stealing the ball twice and sinking his next five shots to clinch it.

London, England, was the first city in the world to attain a population of one million.

Semi-Finals Slated In Helen Doherty Golf

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. (AP)—It came as no surprise today when Marlene Stewart Streit teed off in semifinals of the Helen Doherty Golf Tournament.

In five previous appearances here, she has putted her way into semifinals and last year she won the title.

Playing against the 25-year-old Fonthill, Ont., golfer was Barbara McIntire, of Lake Park, Fla., who, like Marlene, is a former U.S. Amateur titlist.

In the other semifinal match, Mrs. Jean Cici of Long Beach, N.Y., who never has won a major tournament, went against Alice Dye of Indianapolis, six-time winner of the Indiana State championship.

Stowaway Discloses His Pike's Peak Trip

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo. (AP) — A Kansas man disclosed Friday he was a stowaway on an automobile trip to the summit of Pike's Peak last summer.

He said he hid in the trunk of the car to avoid paying the toll on the Peak Highway.

"Later, I began to think that wasn't the thing to do," he said in a note accompanying a check for 50 cents, the toll fee.

City officials declined to disclose his name.

Court Calls 50 As Jurors For Crime Trials

A venire of 50 prospective jurors has been summoned to appear Monday, Feb. 1, at 9 a. m. in Common Pleas Court at Lisbon for the first criminal trial of the January term of court.

The first will be forgery case against Walter R. Kline, 59, of Alliance, involving a $25 check cashed at the Salem store of the Sears Roebuck & Co., according to Prosecutor G. William Brokaw.

The prospective jurors are:

East Liverpool — David McEwen, 1601 St. Clair Ave., Raymond L. Gonzalles, Charles Dunlevy and George A. Bradfield, R. D. 2, Margaret A. Arthur, 1603 Lisbon St., Virginia Leon, 2104 Ohio Ave., Ethel Golba, 1819 Michigan Ave., Thelma M. Sadler, 2100 Michigan Ave , Stella S. Paisley, 2403 St. Clair Ave., Benjamin Herkert, 823 Bank St.. Joseph Sullivan, 238 W. 4th St., Robert Lutton, 225 W. 9th St., Helen Ward, M.C. 22, and Mary McNicol 228 W. 5th St.

Wellsville — George E. Lewis, 1751 Maple St., Richard O. Knepper, 1629 Buckeye Ave., Altha Whiteman, 439½ Main St. and Dean Forbes, R. D 1.

Salem — Delores M. Perkins, Kenneth Willis, Galen Berger, Ralph Scatterfood, Hazel V. Zimmerman, John Ursu, Dixie McGaffick, Robert L. Ware, Nevin Halverstadt, Frank Tolson, James Tausch, Lewis E. Allen and Margaret Potts.

Lisbon — Harvey H. Cusick, 136 E. Washington St., Mable Rowley, R. D. 1, Walter E. Mullen, R. D. 5, Raymond Wilhelm, 123 Bocksom St., William R. Cullison, 411 E. Washington St., and Lloyd Glazer, 627 E. Lincoln Way.

James J. Churchfield and Hugh Kendall, Columbiana; Jean Carney, Dorothy Coseno and Ruby Mathey, Leetonia; Kenneth C. Wickersham and Shirley Thompson, Hanoverton; Angela Chickoris, Salineville; Russell Tauss, East Palestine; Glenn Seachrist, New Waterford; Martha Lee Hawk, East Rochester; Ronnie L. Felger, North Georgetown and Etta Baker, Rogers.

'Dealer's Choice:' Defendant Names His Own Sentence

Raymond (Sarge) Franklin, a frequent defendant in Municipal Court on intoxication charges, won permission from Judge Samuel M. Chertoff Friday to fix his own sentence.

Franklin chose a fine of $100 and costs, enough to keep him in the County Jail at Lisbon — and out of the cold weather — for 33 days.

Franklin was making his third appearance before Judge Chertoff, who ascended the bench only 23 days ago. In the discussion of his latest offense, Franklin asked permission to name his own sentence, declaring he wanted to go to County Jail "until March or April" instead of serving another short stretch in the City Jail.

With the permission granted, Franklin asked for the fine of $100 and costs — maximum under state law — which he will "lay out" at the rate of $3 a day.

Franklin has another distinction: He was the first and last defendant to appear before former Judge George L. Brokaw. When Judge Brokaw ascended the bench 10 years ago, Franklin was the first man before him. When he was preparing to retire Dec. 31, the last defendant was Franklin.

Officers Installed At Shippingport

New officers of the Willing Workers Class of the Green Valley Methodist Sunday School of Shippingport were installed by Mrs. Phyllis Swearingen, outgoing president, at a meeting Monday evening.

They include Mrs. Elva Rogers, president; Mrs. Nancy Campbell, secretary; Mrs. Anna Mae Russell, treasurer, and Mrs. John Marker, chaplain.

The group met at the church with 14 attending. Mrs. Robert Drake and Mrs. Homer Allison were hostesses.

Mr. and Mrs. Curtis Frampton of Newell were guests Tuesday evening of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Green and son.

Mr. and Mrs. Carl Hairhoger of Wampum visited Mr. and Mrs. Carl Gardner Monday evening.

Chief Big Bear Dies

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — Chief Joseph Big Bear, 78, a Cree Indian whose profile served as a model for the Pontiac auto emblem, died Thursday night. A Montana native, he performed in vaudeville and silent motion pictures.

Local Police To Be Trained

Chief Radeschi Discusses FBI 'School' In Lions Talk

Police Chief Americo Radeschi told the Lions Club Friday afternoon he expects to start a training program for city policemen similar to the course he attended last fall at the FBI National Academy in Washington.

Discussing the proposed course, Chief Radeschi said at the club's luncheon meeting at the Travelers Hotel he had hoped to start it this month but had to delay it because of illness.

The academy was founded in 1935 by the FBI director, J. Edgar Hoover, so police officers could receive better training and then return to their own departments as instructors.

The academy has graduated 3,819, including 129 police officers from Ohio, Chief Radeschi said. He said 28.7 per cent of the graduates have become heads of departments.

The course is the same as that given FBI agents, he pointed out, and lasts for 12 weeks. The first 10 weeks are devoted to regular training in police methods and 2 weeks in specialized courses.

Classes are held five days a week for eight hours a day, including an hour of gym work. The first three or four weeks in the gym were strictly calisthenics. After the conditioning period, the students studied methods of disarming criminals armed with various weapons, and defensive tactics and judo.

"I had a 38-inch waist when I went to the academy and a 32-inch waist when I graduated," the chief said in discussing the conditioning exercises.

Two sessions are held each year, one starting in March and the other late in August. Chief Radeschi said there were 97 enrolled in his class but future classes will be limited to 60 so students will benefit more from instruction.

The instructors are active FBI agents.

The course itself is free, the chief said, but the officers must furnish their own board and meals. Radeschi said he spent $684, including $300 of his own funds with the rest supplied by the city.

In addition to detection and investigative procedures and other police methods, the academy instructs the students in all types of side-arms. His class spent a week at Quantico where they were instructed in the use of shotguns, submachine guns and other weapons.

Discussing the FBI, Chief Radeschi said it has some 5,000 agents and will offer assistance in any criminal case where it is needed. The FBI laboratory will test any material sent to it by a police department, he said.

Polio Patient Talks To PTA

Miss Doris Coutant of East Liverpool, polio patient, spoke on the subject of "Polio" at the meeting of the 1st St. Parent-Teacher Association at the Midland school Thursday afternoon with Mrs. George J. Suzenevich, president, presiding. She discussed her career as a ceramic designer, cut short by the crippling disease. She was introduced by Mrs. Chester Cook.

Thank-you letters were read from the Midland Lions Club for the donation towards the baskets given to the needy at Christmas and from the Beaver County Children's Home in New Brighton for the 120 gifts the PTA to the children for Christmas, an annual project.

Mrs. Suznevich expressed appreciation to the mothers for trimming the Christmas tree and taking it down.

An invitation was received to attend the Beaver County PTA Council's Founder's Day celebration to be held in the Grace Lutheran Church in New Brighton Feb. 6. PTA presidents of the county area will be honored, along with the state life members and honorary members.

Supt. Ralph H. Jewell, Miss Cora Wickline, Miss Margaret Hogan, principal of the elementary schools and an honorary member; Mrs. P. A. Fernsler and Mrs. Jack Haggerty, president of the 4th St., PTA, are state life members.

Other Midland PTA presidents are Mrs. Haggerty of the 4th St. unit and Mrs. William Black of the 7th St. group.

Mrs. Clark Bradfield's second grade homeroom mothers were in charge of the tea, assisted by Mrs. Nick Viakley, Mrs. Adam Hodnick and Mrs. James LeMasters.

A movie, "Founder's Day," will be shown at the meeting Feb. 18 at 3 p. m. and all past presidents will be honored.

Judge Addresses County PTA Unit

Aspects of juvenile problems were discussed by Judge Louis Tobin of East Liverpool at a meeting of the Columbiana County PTA Council Thursday night at Salineville.

Jack Baker, executive head of the Southern Local School District, welcomed the group to the meeting for which the Salineville PTA was host.

Mrs. Betty Whelan of Salineville, Council president, announced Mrs. Lena Witter of Marion, first vice president of the Ohio PTA Congress, will be speaker at the next meeting March 5 at Summitville.

The Board of Directors will meet Feb. 10 at Wellsville.

City Students Among Group In Band Event

Four East Palestine students are among a Columbiana County group at a district band event at Carrollton today.

The all-district band will include students from Columbiana, Stark, Jefferson and Carroll County high school bands. The East Palestine students are Delmer Knight, Patty Rafferty, Kay Trapnell and Sandy Ward.

Warren Campbell, Beaver Local High School band director, also was to attend.

Three East Liverpool High School students also are members of the band. They include Ronald McAtee, clarinetist, Donald Smith, cornetist, and Wilbur Forester, drums. They were accompanied by Donald Allen, band director.

New Court Rules Drafted For Trusteeship Actions

Municipal Judge Samuel M. Chertoff has drawn up new court rules to tighten administration of trusteeship actions, under which debtors may escape attachment of their wages so long as they make regular payments into court for distribution to their creditors.

Under the new rules, effective Feb. 1, the debtors will lose their legal immunity from attachment if they fail to make regular payments out of their earnings at the rate prescribed by law, as the court will dismiss the trusteeships and refuse to reinstate them for 90 days, the judge said.

Payments are delinquent under most of the 80 trusteeships now in force, but the judge has ordered that the debtors must begin to comply with the law by Feb. 15.

The tightening of the trusteeship regulations is part of a general revision of the court rules that will take effect Feb. 1. Copies will be sent to all attorneys, Judge Chertoff said.

Under Ohio law, a debtor may seek a trusteeship by filing an action in Municipal Court, naming all the persons and firms to whom he owes money and the amount due each. Then the court may appoint a trustee — automatically designating the clerk — and issue a restraining order forbidding attachments, garnishments or aids in execution so long as the trusteeship remains in effect.

After the initial hearing, the court generally sets up an interval of a week before the final order. In that time, the debtor must notify his creditors of the trusteeship action.

Then the debtor begins to make regular payments into court against his total obligations. He is required to pay 20 per cent of his personal earnings up to $300 a month and 40 per cent of the remainder. The court issues receipts for the payments and holds the money until it has accumulated an amount equal to 25 per cent of the total debt. Then a distribution is made to all the creditors on a pro rata basis.

Two difficulties have been encountered in the system in the past. Either the debtors did not make regular payments or they paid only token amounts, not the full percentage required by law.

So the debtor was immune from wage attachments while his creditors complained that he was taking advantage of the trusteeship law to pay nothing or as little as possible.

In the first step under the new system, the court will mail a letter to every person now in trusteeship, noting when the last payment was made on their account and advising that if the payments are not brought up to date the case will be "dismissed forthwith."

A new rule of the court will provide that when a trusteeship is delinquent for 30 days — unless "good cause" such as unemployment can be shown — the case will be dismissed and will not be considered for reinstatement for 90 days. In cases of reinstatement, the applicant will be required to notify all his creditors again and pay any court costs that are due.

In the future, the court will collect the statutory $3.75 for filing a trusteeship case instead of the $2 generally levied in the past, the judge said. Persons who file a trusteeship action will receive a letter from the court explaining both their rights and their obligations under the law.

To make a payment on a trusteeship, the applicant will be required to report to the court in person and show a paycheck stub or other evidence of his earnings, rather than sending some member of his family to make a payment without proving how much the applicant earned in the period covered by the payment.

Persons whose trusteeships are delinquent will be given until Feb. 15 to make the payments, the judge said. When a trusteeship is dismissed for failure to comply with the law, any money that has been collected up to that time will be distributed to the creditors, he added.

Under a new state law, any resident of Columbiana County may apply for a trusteeship in Municipal Court. Formerly the applications could be considered only from persons residing in the court district — East Liverpool and Liverpool Township.

Andrews Sisters Sued For $230,424 In Taxes

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Uncle Sam has sued the singing Andrews sisters for $230,424.22 in back taxes.

U.S. Atty. Laughlin Waters said Friday the taxes are due for the years 1949 through 1953 from Patricia, Laverne and Maxene Andrews.

Eat and Stay Slim—The Secret Way

MY CLIMB FROM ROOKIE TO "RIFLEMAN"
by Chuck Connors

A noted physician offers a diet which doesn't require skipping your favorite foods—just your favorite conversation topic

Eat and Stay Slim—the SECRET Way

by MILTON PLOTZ, M.D.
Clinical Professor of Medicine,
State University of New York
with JACK RYAN

SHIRLEY BROWN is not her real name, but I can assure you she's a very real person with a very common problem—weight.

"I just can't stick to a diet, doctor," she told me sadly while plumped rather overstuffedly in the office chair. "I guess I have no will power."

She had picked out a "no-something" diet that promised to slim her down in a week or so. At a party, though, one glance at that villainous but delectable "something" started her sighing about "the agony of being on a diet."

Like a conspirator, the hostess whispered into her ear. "This is a party. Breaking your diet doesn't count. After all, you've got to have fun."

Shirley got her fun—and eventually the three pounds she had lost in previous days. Now she was disconsolate, suffering the depression of a sincere dieter who had cheated herself.

To many doctors, this depression seems completely unnecessary. There's an easy, healthy way to diet, one which takes away poundage without taking away fun. Call it a "scrimp diet," "secret diet," or "reduce-and-have-fun diet"—the name isn't important. The results are, though.

Shirley Brown went on such a diet. She eliminated more than 1,000 calories per day and in four months had lost 30 pounds, bringing her to normal weight. There were two phases in her campaign.

FIRST, she kept her mouth shut about it. Remember, while a diet may be fascinating to the dieter, it's a bore to others. Possibly to avenge this boredom, well-meaning friends and relatives seem dedicated to sidetracking the dieter. "Just take a bite of this"..."Oh, two spoonfuls won't hurt."

Even a strong-willed person, battling his own appetite, weakens under the entreaties of people he likes and respects. And once a diet is broken, it's rarely pieced together.

Shirley went to parties and luncheons, but she didn't inflict her dieting on friends. Consequently, they left her free to eat what she wanted.

Didn't people notice she was cutting out some foods? No, because Shirley did not cut out any foods. She merely cut down.

This is the second and key phase of the diet. You eat normally but less of everything. Thus, you enjoy both food and social life—and let others enjoy them, too. An individual's modified diet, of course, will depend on what he normally eats, but here's how Shirley Brown adjusted her calories and, in turn, her figure:

Breakfast was one poached or boiled egg instead of two fried ones, saving 125 calories. She ate dry cereal with milk (two ounces, 40 calories) instead of heavy cream (two ounces, 200 calories), saving 160 calories. There was no bread for breakfast on the days she ate cereal.

At lunch she ate a salad with vinegar dressing made with a touch of sugar. Eliminating two tablespoons of the usual mayonnaise saved 200 calories. When she felt like having a sandwich, she used two slices of thin bread (100 calories) and buttered them with one teaspoon of butter (50 calories, instead of a tablespoon of butter at 150 calories). She drank a glass of skim milk (80 calories less than whole milk) once a day and ate unsweetened applesauce, or a peach, pear, or melon. They substituted for the two doughnuts she used to eat and cut down 300 calories.

At dinner she ate soup, meat (without gravy) and vegetables, and a small portion of rice or noodles or potatoes, too. For dessert, she enjoyed a small piece of plain cake or a portion of plain ice cream or a half-portion of pie; or one ounce of cheese with three or four crackers. That brought caloric intake down from 400 to 200. Total savings for the day: more than 1,000 calories.

Shirley Brown increased her portions slightly when she reached her normal weight. But she never went completely off the diet. Like many obese persons, she often asked, "Will I have to diet forever?" The answer for all is "probably yes."

But dieting isn't a lifetime of grapefruit juice and raw carrots or yogurt and steaks. It's a normal amount of proteins and minerals without any forbidden foods—just forbidden large portions.

Any good diet must be nutritionally adequate, of course. Each of us, at every age, needs the basic seven foods every day—1) green and yellow vegetables; 2) oranges and other citrus fruits, cabbage, and salad greens; 3) potatoes, fruit, and vegetables; 4) milk and its products; 5) meat, fish, and fresh eggs; 6) bread, other cereals; 7) butter, margarine, other fats, oils, and carbohydrates.

This means that if you eat meat, fish, or cheese each day, the fat requirement will be met by the natural fat in those foods, which are primarily protein but contain some fat. Butter, other shortenings, gravies, and oil or mayonnaise should be taken in light quantities. Starches, too, can be reduced but not eliminated.

SO-CALLED "crash diets" are not harmful in themselves; although vitamin-deficient, they could even be valuable as "starters" or "pump-primers" for a few days. But when a "crash diet" ends, the dieter starts eating again. The excess weight returns and with it the dieter's depression. Besides, alternately "crashing" and "gorging" can be harmful.

If you must adopt a crash diet, look upon it only as the beginning of your long-range secret diet with its modified but well-balanced caloric intake. And get used to the idea that you can never eat as much as in the old days. In time, you will find you have developed new eating habits that will be as unconscious a part of your daily living as any other habit.

Modified dieting is based on the simple fact that Americans don't need as much food as they eat. We have a tradition of hearty eating, and we are blessed with a full larder. Consequently, most of us overeat. Huge meals were fine for our ancestors who labored heavily, but we have become a sedentary people who no longer work off what we consume.

There's another American tradition which is making us a nation of fatties—overwhelming hospitality. Ever since the Pilgrims, hosts have been stuffing guests with rich foods and feeling insulted if the plate isn't wiped clean.

An American who wants to adjust his eating to his living habits hasn't got a chance unless he remains secretive about it. It's sad but true: for most of us, even talk is fattening!

10 ways to lose a wife

With women, it's the "little things" that count—and that includes hubby's minor faults, which can produce a major marital crisis

BY LESTER DAVID

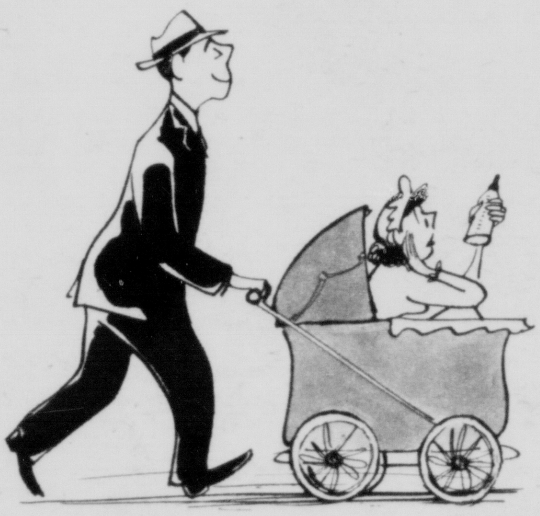
Several months ago, Family Weekly published "10 Ways to Lose a Husband," describing the wifely habits that can rock the marital boat. But how about the other side of the coin? What irritates wives most about husbands? Here are the answers, required reading for all wives and, of course, husbands.

EVERYONE REALIZES that excessive drinking, gambling away the pay check, infidelity, and other major transgressions can cause domestic woe for a man. Few understand, however, that there are other ways to lose a wife—with trifles!

This article, then, deals not with the major faults of the male animal in his domestic habitat but with his minor ones. Sociologist Dr. Ray E. Baber calls them "tremendous trifles" which seethe for years, then possibly explode a marriage.

Of course, an occasional husbandly lapse is harmless. The seriousness, marital experts agree, hinges on a wife's boiling point and the frequency of the offense.

So here are 10 shortcomings the wise husband will avoid as much as possible if he wants to keep a wife happy—and, ergo, himself.



"My husband treats me like a baby."

Overprotecting a wife can be just as bad as overprotecting a child. Dr. Rebecca Liswood, director of the Marriage Counseling Service of Greater New York, points out that men who want to play father to their wives are much more common than many persons suspect.

"For a woman who wants to be independent, this male attitude can rankle and eventually cause a break," says Dr. Liswood.

Tip: treat her like a grownup—she is, you know!

"It's nag, nag, nag, or boss, boss, boss!"

Nagging is by no means exclusively a feminine characteristic. When the American Institute of Public Opinion (the Gallup Poll) asked wives to name the worst faults of husbands, nagging made the list of the top 10.

In Kingston, N. Y., a long-suffering wife finally acted. Her husband had kept up such a barrage of criticism that one day she walked out, leaving a note on the breakfast table: "Complaint bureau closed until further notice."

The nagging male is likely to be one who wants to be boss of the house but doesn't know how. His determination to be the "Big Man" of the family can cost him his wife's respect, even her love.

A Baltimore, Md., mother of three growing children tearfully told a marriage counselor: "He tries to run the place as though he were a Prussian top sergeant, barking orders and expecting everyone to hop to." Prof. Margaret Benz of New York University points out that few women, despite current opinion to the contrary, really want to be the dominant voice in a family—they want to be protected, they want men to make the important decisions.

But—an important but—they don't want to be bullied or intimidated, either.

"He insists on handling the money—and he hasn't 'money sense.'"

A Roanoke, Va., housewife told a family counselor: "Our trouble is money—not the lack of it but the handling. Bill was brought up to feel that the man should take charge, but it happens that he's just not money-wise. I know I'm a better manager, but Bill won't give up his 'male prerogative.'"

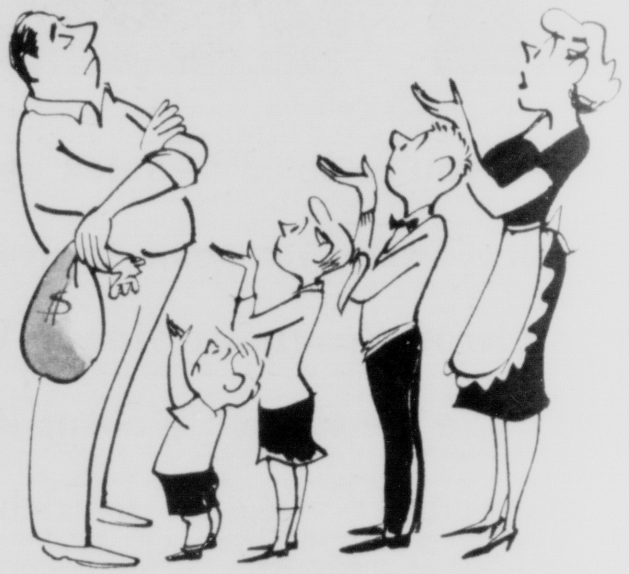
Dr. Judson T. Landis of the University of California sums up the experts' views: "The fundamental thing (in money handling) is agreement. If a couple finds that one system does not work satisfactorily, it is well to try another. Success is more probable if people can throw aside preconceived ideas and be adjustable."

"He thinks I can read his mind."

A Florida couple went before a marriage counselor recently and cited this example of their troubles. The husband was due at an important function at eight o'clock one evening. When he began dressing, he found to his horror that his blue suit, the one he intended to wear, was rumpled. He stormed into the kitchen and demanded of his wife: "Why didn't you take my suit to the tailor?"

"Why didn't you ask me?" she blazed back. "Am I supposed to read your mind?"

Dr. Harold Kenneth Fink, a Fort Lauderdale, Fla., psychotherapist and marriage counselor, explains that women can't be expected to anticipate their husbands' every need. "Most women would happily attend to their husbands' things, but be fair—tell them what's wanted," Fink suggests.



"He's a penny pincher—I have to live on a dole."

Thrift is a virtue if not carried to the point of making a wife miserable. Male stinginess ranks sixth in the Gallup list of husbandly faults and high in the casebooks of the marriage menders.

An Idaho mother of five, for instance, told a caseworker: "He has no idea what it takes to run a house. He keeps asking where the money goes, but rarely gives me enough to let it go anywhere."

Most generous men probably never give it a thought, but many wives also resent having to ask for money every time they need something. A Long Island, N. Y., woman watched her two daughters get together nickels and dimes to buy Dad a birthday present. "They could do better than I," the woman said. "I could either buy my husband a gift from my house money and then run short, or else ask him for the money for his own present!"

A spokesman for the Family Service Association of America points out that having some money of her own is important to a wife, providing a needed feeling of independence. The solution frequently lies in a joint account to which both have access.

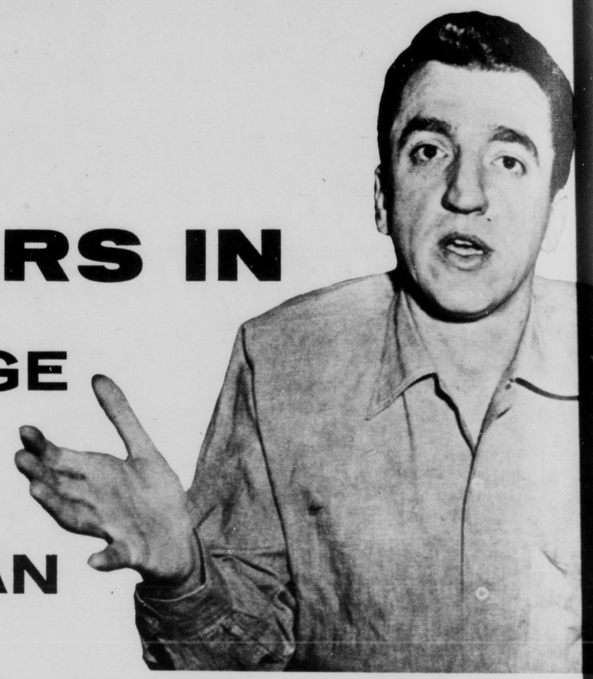
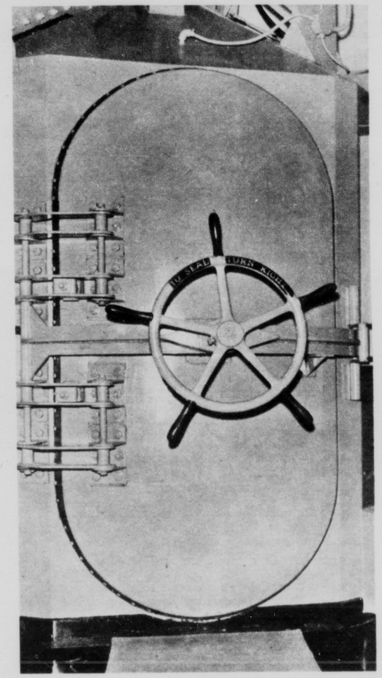
11 YEARS IN DEATH ROW

THE STRANGE CASE OF CARYL CHESSMAN



BY EVAN McLEOD WYLIE

With the specter of the gas chamber hanging over him, two questions remain unanswered: Was he really the Red Light Bandit? And, guilty or innocent, did he receive a fair trial?



San Quentin gas chamber may end Chessman's ordeal.

"Be on the lookout for a male . . . swarthy complexion . . . possibly Italian . . . five-feet-four to five-ten . . . 150-170 pounds . . . thin to medium build . . . dark brown hair . . . crooked teeth . . . narrow nose with slight hump on the bridge of nose . . . armed with .45 automatic . . . uses small pen-type flashlight . . . believed driving '47 club coupé . . .a red spotlight has been seen on side of car . . ."

IT WAS A FEW MINUTES before 8 p.m. Jan. 23, 1947, a chilly, fog-shrouded night in Los Angeles, Calif. For weeks, a "Red Light Bandit," impersonating a policeman in a car with a flashing red spotlight, had been terrorizing lovers-lane couples parked on the dark winding canyon roads that overlook Pasadena's famed Rose Bowl and the glittering lights of Hollywood.

Sometimes, after he had examined the couples' wallets, he flourished a .45 automatic, pocketed their money, and departed. Other times he affixed a mask over his face, forced the girl to accompany him in his car, and brutally assaulted her. Only the night before, he had held a terrified 17-year-old girl captive for three hours. Now, as police cars combed the canyons and hills above Hollywood, their radios blared forth the bandit's description.

In Car 35, nosing slowly through the congested streets of downtown Hollywood, police officers James Reardon and Robert May suddenly spotted a Ford coupé matching the description of the bandit's car and signaled it to pull over. Instead, the Ford was off like a shot. As Reardon tramped hard on the accelerator, May, fumbling for his gun, flicked a dashboard button and flashed a radio message: "We are in pursuit of a Ford '47 coupé—heading south on Vermont Avenue at very high speed." Within a few moments, a dozen police cars converged on Vermont Avenue to cut off the coupé.

Zigzagging wildly through heavy traffic at 80 miles per hour, bullets from May's gun smashing into its rear window, the Ford charged recklessly through one road block and was about to evade another with a tire-screeching U turn when a broadside ram from Reardon brought it to a halt. Their prisoner was a 27-year-old man named Caryl Chessman.

By the next morning, Hollywood police had accumulated enough evidence to link Chessman directly to the crimes of the Red Light Bandit. The Ford coupé had been stolen in Pasadena one month before—about the same time that the Red Light Bandit had begun to prey on the lovers-lane couples. In its glove compartment was found a pen-type flashlight. On the ground near the car was a .45 automatic. Except for his height (six feet) and lack of an Italian accent, Chessman fitted the description of the bandit. Many of the victims identified him.

WITHIN 48 HOURS, police announced that they had obtained Chessman's oral confession and that the case was solved. But, brought to trial a few weeks later, Chessman denied emphatically that he was the Red Light Bandit. He insisted he was the victim of coincidence, mistaken identity, and a police frame-up, that detectives had tricked and beaten him into confessing the crimes.

Cocky and self-confident, he spurned the offer of a court-appointed attorney and undertook to defend himself. After hearing the evidence and the witnesses against him, however, a jury of 11 women and one man found Chessman guilty of robbery and kidnaping and invoked California's seldom-used "Little Lindbergh" kidnaping law to fix the penalty of death in San Quentin's gas chamber.

On July 3, 1948, Caryl Chessman was taken to San Quentin and placed in Cell 2455 on death row. No one had evinced the slightest interest or sympathy in his case. His execution appeared inevitable and imminent. The case, which had rated only a few paragraphs in the newspapers, appeared closed.

But one of Chessman's favorite sayings is, "When it gets too tough for everyone else, it's just right for me." Filing a steady stream of legal appeals, writs, briefs, and petitions, he dodged and twisted his way through the courts. Each time the net seemed drawn tightly about him, he found a legal loophole in it to delay his execution.

At first Chessman framed his writs and petitions in longhand on yellow pads. Later, permitted a typewriter, he turned an empty cell on death row into a law office. Working with tremendous energy and a single-minded concentration, he spent 18 hours a day fighting his case.

Instead of being put to death that summer of 1948, Chessman has remained alive in Cell 2455 while the U.S. fought the Korean War, went to the polls three times to elect a President, and advanced into the Space Age. He has seen nearly 100 other condemned men and one woman marched or carried to the green gas chamber on the floor below, watched others disintegrate into babbling insanity by the nightmarish despair of death row.

The judge who sentenced him to death is dead. Witnesses who testified against him have scattered. One is confined to a mental institution. The law under which he was sentenced to death has been changed to eliminate the death penalty. All prisoners affected by it have been awarded clemency save Chessman who, still alive 12 years later, has become the world's most famous doomed convict.

When not busy with his fiery legal petitions, Chessman began to write. Soon he was vividly chronicling the horrors of death row and arguing as brilliantly against the shortcomings of the prison system and capital punishment as any expert penologist. His autobiography, "Cell 2455, Death Row," became a best seller and has been published in 14 languages. Despite a decree by the California prison director that he could write no more, he has gone to extreme lengths to complete two more books, one written completely on carbon paper, and smuggle them out of San Quentin.

Over the years, Chessman's fantastic struggle for survival has attracted the attention of psychologists, criminologists, penologists, and the public at large. Lawyers have undertaken his defense. Petitions to spare his life have been signed by millions in Sweden, Brazil, Japan, India, and other countries. Many prominent Americans, including TV's Steve Allen, producer Walter Wanger, Eleanor Roosevelt, novelist Aldous Huxley, psychiatrist Dr. Karl Menninger, as well as priests, rabbis, and ministers, have joined in pleas that he be awarded clemency or a new trial. Recently, Osservatore Romano, the Vatican newspaper, editorialized: "Nobody can deny that anyone who has to wait 11 years for the gas chamber has expiated his guilt, no matter how grave."

TODAY, after 12 years of heated controversy and thousands of pages of legal documents, two questions still loom unanswered.

Was Chessman really the Red Light Bandit?

He has offered innumerable times to take a lie-detector test, drawn attention to the fact that, while admittedly guilty of scores of robberies, he had never before been convicted or even accused of a sex crime.

While practically conceding that the Ford coupé he was driving when captured was the car used by the Red Light Bandit, Chessman has insisted that two criminal cronies who used the car were guilty of the crimes. He asserts he has told one of his lawyers in confidence "the name, identity, and part of the story of the Red Light Bandit: the main one and a clown who was mixed up with him and also with me in a different deal." He also says that, though they are friends outside of prison, he has placed the names of these men "together with certain affidavits and police records" in a package to be made public some 50 years from now.

The second unanswered question is:

Did he—guilty or innocent—receive a fair trial?

All of Chessman's protestations would not have delayed his execution a single day if he hadn't seized on a loophole in the state's case against him and hammered away at it until he has convinced some newspapermen, lawyers, and even judges that his constitutional rights were violated.

By a freakish circumstance, the court stenographer who kept the daily shorthand record of the trial died suddenly just two days before Chessman was sentenced to death. Later, to obtain the full transcript of the trial, the dead stenographer's notes —written in a peculiar, almost undecipherable form of shorthand—were completed by another court stenographer who, it was later disclosed, was a relative of the prosecuting attorney.

Moreover, this stenographer, selected by the prosecuting attorney, conferred privately and at length with the witnesses against Chessman to reconstruct their testimony before translating the notes. Neither Chessman nor any legal representative of his was invited to these meetings.

Later, the shorthand notes were stored by still another relative of the same prosecuting attorney in a garage, then in a private safe-deposit vault, so that Chessman and his attorneys were unable to examine them until nearly eight years after his trial. Chessman's claims of prejudice and error in this handling of the trial record have formed the basis of most of his appeals. Last month the U. S. Supreme Court rejected Chessman's latest petition, and the state of California promptly set Feb. 19 as his eighth—and perhaps final—execution date.

Is there any real key to the strange story of Caryl Chessman?

Yes, say some experts. Long before the Red Light Bandit case, Chessman already was one of the most reckless, hardened, and incorrigible criminals at large in California. Born in Michigan, the only child of parents of modest means, Chessman suffered an attack of encephalitis at 10, which he claims changed him from a happy, creative youngster into a brooding, temperamental problem child. At 12, he began stealing bread and milk off neighbors' doorsteps. At 14, he was stealing cars and breaking into gas stations and candy stores. At 16, he was in reform school. At 18, he was the swaggering, bragging leader of a gang of boy bandits. At 20, in 1940, he was sent to San Quentin for robbery.

Belying characterizations of Chessman as a "criminal genius" is the fact that all his thefts and robberies were so poorly planned and haphazardly executed that from 1940 until 1948 he was seldom out from behind bars for more than six weeks at a time. Altogether, he has spent nearly two-thirds of his lifetime in prison.

YET, WITHIN PRISON, Chessman always switched roles. As a model prisoner, he displayed such marked intelligence, enthusiasm, and dedicated energy that he was assigned to clerical and educational posts. He taught English, shorthand, and typing, and developed his own method for teaching illiterate convicts to read. Nonetheless, in San Quentin and other prisons in the early 1940s, psychiatrists who studied Chessman concluded that he was a dangerous psychopathic personality who could not be trusted to adjust to normal life.

As his long legal struggle approaches a climax, Caryl Chessman, pain-racked by an ulcer, warped by years in death row, shows signs of nearing exhaustion. Some newspapermen, who over the years have become closely acquainted with him, say he is "about burned out" and that his will to fight any longer is waning. Chessman himself has scorned his lawyers' attempts to have his sentence commuted to life imprisonment, declaring that if he cannot prove his innocence he would rather die.

If incorrigible Caryl Chessman was not guilty of the Red Light Bandit crimes, it is ironic that, from Cell 2455, he may have contributed more to society's understanding of its problem children than he ever would have as a free man or long since put to death in the gas chamber.

The 1960 Reducer's Guide

Experts say the average American adult weighs 20 pounds more than he or she should. Dieting is the answer—but when? For your convenience, here is a calendar for getting started on your diet this year:

January:	Too late in month. Wait until next month.
February:	Short month. Hardly worth starting a diet.
March:	Blustery and damp. Need all the calories you can get.
April:	Spring chores to do. Can't work without energy.
May:	Body undergoing spring changes. Dangerous to alter things.
June:	Golf and tennis season beginning. A person needs exercise and exercise needs nourishment. Better wait.
July:	Everybody's throwing outdoor barbecues. Turn them down and you'll get a reputation for being antisocial.
August:	Muggy dog days. Weather is enough without contending with starvation.
September:	Vacation over. Concentrate on job, not personal welfare.
October:	Crisp days, ideal for football games and hiking. Need warm foods, though, to keep up strength.
November:	Not until after Thanksgiving.
December:	Too late in year. Wait until next month.

Grand meats . . .

Family Weekly Cookbook / MELANIE DE PROFT, Food Editor

. . . are such ground meats as the tempting Party Ham Loaf garnished with baked peaches, just right for buffet service—Boeuf Polynesian, with its pleasing flavor, to grace your special-occasion table—Lamb Soufflé, a family special or perfect company fare when served with Hot Caper Sauce.

BOEUF POLYNESIAN

TO PREPARE: 20 MIN. TO COOK: 15 MIN.

- 2 tablespoons butter
- 1 lb. ground beef
- 1 4-oz. can mushrooms, drained
- ½ cup golden raisins
- 1 10-oz. pkg. frozen peas
- ½ cup beef broth
- 1 teaspoon curry powder
- 1 tablespoon soy sauce
- 1 orange, sliced
- ½ cup salted cashew nuts

1. Heat butter in a large heavy skillet. Add ground beef and separate into small pieces with a spoon; cook until lightly browned.

About 4 servings

For Fried Rice—Cook ½ cup chopped onion in 2 tablespoons butter until onion is light golden. Mix in 2 cups cooked rice and 2 tablespoons soy sauce. Cook over low heat, stirring occasionally, for 5 min. Stir in 1 slightly beaten egg and cook until set.

PARTY HAM LOAF

TO PREPARE: 20 MIN. TO BAKE: 1½ HRS.

- 1½ lbs. ground veal
- 1 lb. ground cooked ham
- 1 cup nonfat dry milk
- 1 teaspoon dry mustard
- 1 teaspoon water
- ¼ cup grated onion
- 1 egg, beaten
- 2 1-lb., 13-oz. cans peach halves, drained (reserve sirup)
- 1 cup fine dry bread crumbs
- ½ teaspoon salt
- ⅛ teaspoon black pepper
- ¼ teaspoon ground cloves
- Whole cloves
- 1 cup firmly packed brown sugar
- ¼ cup cider vinegar
- 12 whole cloves

1. Combine ground veal, ground ham, and dry milk; with a fork, mix well. Blend together the dry mustard and water. Add to meat mixture with onion, beaten egg, 1 cup of the reserved peach sirup, and a mixture of bread crumbs, salt, pepper, and ground cloves; mix lightly but thoroughly. Shape meat mixture into a loaf and place on a rack in a large shallow baking pan. Insert whole cloves into meat loaf.

2. Bake at 350°F 1½ hrs.

3. Meanwhile, mix together in a saucepan 2 cups of the reserved peach sirup, the brown sugar, vinegar, and whole cloves. Bring to boiling; simmer 5 min. Generously spoon sirup over meat loaf every 20 min. during baking. About 15 min. before baking time is up, put the peach halves in pan around the meat loaf and spoon sirup over them.

4. Remove pan from oven. Transfer meat loaf and peaches to warm serving platter; let it stand a few minutes before slicing. Serve sauce remaining in baking pan with the meat loaf.

About 12 servings

LAMB SOUFFLÉ

TO PREPARE: 25 MIN. TO BAKE: 40 MIN.

- 3 tablespoons butter
- 3 tablespoons flour
- ¼ teaspoon salt
- Few grains black pepper
- ½ teaspoon onion salt
- 1 cup milk
- 2 cups ground cooked lamb
- 4 egg yolks
- 3 tablespoons minced parsley
- 4 egg whites

1. Melt butter in a saucepan. Blend in a mixture of the flour, salt, pepper, and onion salt. Heat until mixture bubbles, stirring constantly. Remove from heat. Add milk gradually, stirring constantly. Return to heat and bring rapidly to boiling, stirring constantly. Cook 1 to 2 min. longer. Remove from heat and blend in the ground cooked lamb.

2. Beat egg yolks until they are thick and piled softly. Slowly spoon sauce into beaten egg yolks while beating vigorously with a spoon. Blend in the parsley.

3. Using clean beater, beat egg whites until rounded peaks are formed and egg whites do not slide when bowl is partially inverted. Gently spread sauce over beaten egg whites and carefully fold together until just blended. Turn mixture into a 1½-qt. casserole. Set casserole in pan of very hot water.

4. Bake at 350°F about 40 min., or until a silver knife comes out clean when inserted halfway between center and edge of casserole. Serve at once with Hot Caper Sauce.

About 6 servings

For Hot Caper Sauce (about 1 cup)—Heat 1 cup mayonnaise in top of double boiler over simmering water, stirring constantly; do not boil. Heat 2 teaspoons butter in a small skillet. Add 3 tablespoons chopped onion and cook until soft; drain. When ready to serve, blend onion, ¼ cup capers, coarsely chopped, and 2 tablespoons chopped, toasted, blanched almonds into the mayonnaise. Heat over simmering water and serve immediately.

Mardi Gras Party Cake
$25,000 Bake-Off Winner

Delicate texture, a marvelous double-butterscotch taste in cake and icing . . . deliciously moist, light and proud. It's worthy of your best, so that's how you start . . . with Pillsbury's BEST Flour: so white, so fresh, so smooth in the blending.

A cake like this is a dessert by itself. To get it finished easily in your busy day, make the filling-topping ahead, store in refrigerator, re-heat to use. Recipe's below and in specially marked Pillsbury's BEST Flour sacks, along with more Bake-Off winners!

So moist, so flavorful, you know the BEST Flour made it!

Mrs. Eunice Surles of Lake Charles, Louisiana really couldn't believe it when her cake won the first grand prize. She's baked many a cake in her life, often for the First Methodist Church, but never with such a triumph as this.

MARDI GRAS PARTY CAKE

Adapted by Ann Pillsbury

BAKE at 375° for 25 to 30 minutes.
MAKES two 9-inch layers.

Melt . . . . . ⅔ cup Nestlé's Butterscotch Morsels in ¼ cup water in saucepan. Cool.

Sift together . . 2¼ cups sifted Pillsbury's BEST All Purpose Flour
1 teaspoon Morton Salt
1 teaspoon soda and
½ teaspoon double-acting baking powder. Set aside.

Add . . . . . 1¼ cups sugar gradually to ½ cup shortining, cream well.

Blend in . . . 3 unbeaten eggs; beat well after each. Blend in melted morsels; mix well.

Add . . . . . the dry ingredients alternately with 1 cup buttermilk or sour milk, beginning and ending with dry ingredients. Blend well after each addition.

Turn . . . . . into two 9-inch round (or two 8-inch at least 1½ inches deep) layer pans, well greased and floured on bottoms.

Bake . . . . . at 375° for 25 to 30 minutes. Cool; spread Filling between layers and on top to within ½ inch of edge. Frost sides and edge with Sea Foam Frosting or whipped cream.

BUTTERSCOTCH FILLING

Combine ½ cup sugar, 1 tablespoon cornstarch, ½ cup evaporated milk, ⅓ cup water, ⅓ cup Nestlé's Butterscotch Morsels and 1 beaten egg yolk in saucepan. Cook over medium heat, stirring constantly, until thick. Remove from heat; add 2 tablespoons Land O'Lakes Butter, 1 cup coconut, chopped, and 1 cup nuts, chopped. Cool.

SEA FOAM FROSTING

Combine in saucepan ⅓ cup sugar, ⅓ cup firmly packed brown sugar, ⅓ cup water and 1 tablespoon corn syrup. Cook until a little syrup dropped in cold water forms a soft ball (236° F.). Beat 1 egg white with ¼ teaspoon French's Cream of Tartar until stiff peaks form. Add syrup to egg white in slow stream, beating until thick.

Twirly Tag

Nat Bradford

Have you ever played this dizzy game? Five or more players make a big circle, each standing six feet away from the other. A leader outside the circle calls, "Hurly burly, now go twirly!" Then each player tries to run to the player on his right. When one catches up, he tags this player, who drops out of the circle. Sometimes the leader calls "Ziggity zeft—now go left!" Then the players run around the other way. Last one in the circle wins.

Cork Convoy

Bill Ross

You can stage small-scale naval maneuvers in a puddle, pond, or big dishpan if you make a few of these ships. Save all the big corks (two- or three-inch size) you can, and cut off one side to flatten them. Place corks flat side down and cut a slit —not too deep—along the length of each. In books, magazines, or an encyclopedia, find pictures of battleships, cruisers, destroyers, or aircraft carriers and make simple outline drawings of them. Mount on heavy cardboard, color with crayons, cut out, and slide into the slots in the corks. Then set them all afloat. Use lung power to blow them in the direction you want.

Using the same idea, you can make funny floating toys. Cut out a duck or whale shape and put in flattened corks to sail in your tub.

"He won't lift a finger around the house, yet messes it up as soon as I clean."

Husbands who never or only grudgingly help with the home chores come in for some hard raps. A woman in Orlando, Fla., told a marriage clinic how she cured her husband of this type of goofing off.

"We have four young children," she reported, "and I was hanging on the ropes. He had this old-fashioned idea that Father sits in his easy chair while Mother does all the work. Finally, I just put the baby in his arms and walked out. I stayed at Mother's two whole days. Since then, there's been no trouble."

Few men can understand the pride women take in their housekeeping. Therefore, the husband who carelessly streaks a newly vacuumed rug or tracks up a just-waxed kitchen floor isn't apt to win any popularity contests at home, particularly if he does so constantly.

"He listens to his mother and sister—but to me, Oh no!"

Immature husbands are strongly influenced by Mom and Sis, and wife grits her teeth in rage when this happens. The food Mother cooked was better, sisters have smarter ideas about decorating, Ma's advice about the vacation plans is taken instead of the wife's. Dr. Phillip Polatin, clinical professor of psychiatry at the College of Physicians and Surgeans, Columbia University, says that in these cases there is "usually a strong tie, never outgrown, to one or more members of the family, who represent the more satisfying relationships of childhood." To men like this: Grow up!

Many "unromantic" husbands live their lives as if they were still bachelors with weekly bowling sessions, fishing trips, poker, and just too many "nights-out-with-the-boys." Occasional nights off are fine, but the man who insists on too much freedom is failing in his marriage. He may end up having all the freedom he wants and finding it's not so wonderful after all.

"He's impossible with the kids!"

A machinist's wife comments: "If he's calm, the kids can get away with murder. If he's worried, he gets tougher. If he's really upset, he flails away at them." Obviously, a wrong approach, child authorities agree. Treat the children fairly but firmly, they advise, regardless of one's nervous system at the time.

Another fault is overruling the wife's decisions. Johnny asks Mom for permission to stay out until 10, gets turned down. Dad interjects with, "Oh, let the kid go." Johnny soon learns how to play one against the other.

There are dozens of small decisions to be made every evening as far as children are concerned, and double the number on week ends. Fathers who either don't want to be bothered or won't take the responsibilty are prone to answer all queries with "Go ask your mother." And Mother objects. If a request is directed your way, give it a straight answer.

"He won't talk to me about business."

This is a time-honored plaint but still a frequent one. Allied to this is the refusal of many men to let their wives assist in some phase of their work. Business experts point out, however, that the ladies can be mighty helpful with some time-consuming aspects of a job. For instance, an insurance man's wife can mail out reminders and anniversary greetings, a salesman's wife help keep accounts, a lawyer's wife do occasional research. And don't underestimate the little woman's knowledge of business—modern education and working experience make today's woman a wise one.

"My husband isn't romantic any more!"

Nine little words crop up often in the casebooks of the marital experts, much sadder than the three little ones of courtship days. These are, "He never tells me he loves me any more." Typical was the story of the attractive woman, wed 14 years, who told Dr. Ellis: "I don't expect flowers every evening and a 'big date.' But never hearing a word from him that tells me I'm still desirable as a woman is a shriveling thing."

Says Dr. Evelyn Millis Duvall, a noted sociologist: "Giving little gifts, casting affectionate glances, saying 'I love you,' can not only keep this marriage alive but deep love as well."

Under romantic complaints also comes untidiness—the husband who looks like a tramp. A long-suffering wife told a university researcher: "Before we were married, I never saw him unless he had a fresh haircut and wore a newly pressed suit. Now he comes home and in two seconds transforms himself into the old-style Marlon Brando, torn tee-shirt and all. On week ends, he embarrasses me terribly. He never shaves or dresses, no matter who comes to visit."

Remember, gentlemen, you can dress informally without looking "beat."

And that's the lot—the 10 little ways to lose a wife. Reverse them and they become 10 big rules for a happy, successful marriage.

THERE'S NOTHING LIKE A NEW CAR FOR GOING PLACES AND DOING THINGS

For all-around pleasure, convenience and usefulness, nothing returns quite so much for the money as a new car. All makes are improved this year, but we believe our fine, new General Motors cars are worth your special consideration.

Few things are welcomed into the family so eagerly and warmly as a bright and shining new car. It's not surprising—for a new car plays a big part in family activities. It serves you faithfully, in so many useful, pleasurable and important ways.

And, with a new car, you know that you have provided your family with the utmost in motoring comfort and safety. You go more places with more confidence, and with more fun along the way.

This is true of all new cars, of course, but especially of the sparkling General Motors line for 1960. Delight in the beauty of Magic-Mirror finish. Relax in the solid comfort of a Body by Fisher. Look around . . . Safety Plate Glass in every window. Extras like these are only a small measure of the care, craftsmanship, and engineering skill that goes into each GM car.

Your General Motors dealer will be glad to show you how quickly and conveniently you can have the practical pleasures that only a new car brings. Drop in and talk with him. Why don't you, one of these days soon?

Young Miracle Worker

Ellen Herman could have been a professional model, but instead she chose a career helping youngsters regain the use of their crippled limbs

ELLEN HERMAN grew up in a large, closely knit family full of laughter and love. Life for her has always been comfortable. She is engaged to a handsome medical student and could easily settle down to a contented life dedicated solely to homemaking. She is also pretty enough to be a model—in fact, she has been one. But Ellen is no average American girl. To her, "living happily ever after" means being part of a profession she has had her heart set on ever since she can remember: physical therapy.

Back home in Madison, Wis., Ellen turned to modeling to help pay her college expenses, but when professional offers came her way, she declined. "Modeling was never for me," she says. "As a model, you can never fool yourself into thinking you are really helping anyone."

At 21, this rare young woman has fulfilled her goal. She is on the staff of Boston's famed Children's Medical Center, where she gives hope to the disabled. With the aid of the National Foundation, which handles the largest scholarship program for physical therapists in the country, she was able to complete the training she needed. And from the beginning it was apparent to her instructors that she possessed a unique gift for working with handicapped children.

She says simply: "You can help a child because he is seldom defeated. Maybe it's because a child doesn't realize what illness and disability may mean in the future. Children want to do everything, and they never stop trying. The first time you see a child overcome a disability, you know that being a physical therapist is a wonderful thing. In a sense, it's like being a teacher, opening the doors, training others to take part in life again."

Does she ever regret the glamorous life she might have had as a model? "Not me! I wouldn't turn in this uniform for anything Dior ever designed."

As TV's "Rifleman," Chuck Connors carries gun with the ease he wielded a bat.

My Climb from Rookie to "Rifleman"

His baseball career was distinguished mostly by his clowning, but it led to TV stardom and the conviction that the diamond is an actor's best friend

by CHUCK CONNORS as told to JOHN M. ROSS

IF MY BIG-LEAGUE career was something short of the dreams I had as a kid, it was my own doing. I've been a "ham" ever since I can remember. And the first label they hung on me in the big leagues—"The Barrymore of Baseball"—was no less accidental.

As a rookie with the Brooklyn Dodgers in 1951, I really wowed them. Not with my bat or my first-baseman's glove—but with my emoting. At parties, luncheons, and banquets, I would recite such things as "Casey at the Bat," "The Face on the Barroom Floor," and "Dangerous Dan McGrew." Other times I'd lampoon Dodger president Branch Rickey or my nemesis, manager Burt Shotton.

Like a lot of kids who grew up in the shadow of Ebbets Field, I had my heart set on playing first base for the Dodgers. But Gil Hodges, who had hit 32 home runs the year before, had a lock on it.

This, combined with manager Shotton's violent disapproval of my clowning and brashness, made me expendable. Next stop: the Chicago Cubs.

The Cubs farmed me out for a time to the Los Angeles Angels, where I posted a .325 average before being summoned back to Chicago. In my first five weeks in the Windy City, I hit .322 and kept the Cubs' great first baseman, Phil Cavaretta, nailed to the bench. But then Frankie Frisch was fired as manager, and Cavaretta replaced him.

He put himself on first base and I sat on the bench. Eventually I went through the inevitable trap door. I wound up with the Angels again, and they welcomed me back warmly.

One of my Los Angeles fans, Billy Grady, casting director for MGM at the time, called me one day.

"I've got a part in a new picture you might be able to fill," he said. "Why don't you come on over?"

I suppose I should have trembled at the mere thought of acting, but I didn't.

With practically no urging at all, I dashed to the casting office and was stunned by the red carpet that greeted me. I was escorted through the offices of the bigwigs and given a personal introduction at every stop. Later, wardrobe and make-up men and other hands came at me in every direction and fussed over me with meticulous care. Being a complete greenhorn to the movie business, I immediately assumed I was getting preferential treatment because I was a big man with the Angels.

"You don't have to do all this," I told the director magnanimously. "Just treat me like one of the boys."

The director looked at me in amazement. I was so naïve I had no idea such preparation was necessary for a screen test. I got the part, however, playing a state trooper in "Pat and Mike," and received $500 for working three days.

"Boy, this is a great racket," I told my wife Betty. "At this rate, a fellow only has to work a few months of the year to have it made."

WITH THIS thought in mind, I called Billy Grady at the end of the baseball season. "Got any more little jobs I could handle?" I asked hopefully.

He gave me another bit role which paid $100.

When work on the MGM lot slowed down, I asked Grady if he could introduce me to some of his friends at other studios. The result was an introduction to Billy Garden at 20th Century-Fox, and a bit in "The Silver Whip."

Soon after, he directed me to another rabid ball fan, Solly Biano of Warner Brothers. This introduction landed me a test for "Trouble Along the Way," starring none other than John Wayne.

Arriving late, I discovered that five other actors were being tested with me for the part. I watched for a moment, then slipped through the darkened off-stage area until I came within earshot of the director. He was moaning to his assistant:

"I don't want actors. None of these people relax. They all act."

That was all I had to hear. When my turn came, I fired a cigarette very casually and proceeded to underplay the part.

"You have so much poise," the director beamed after the test. "Where did you get this?"

"Do you really want to know?" I asked. Then I told him how I had eavesdropped on his conversation with the assistant director. That broke him up, and I got the part at $400 a week.

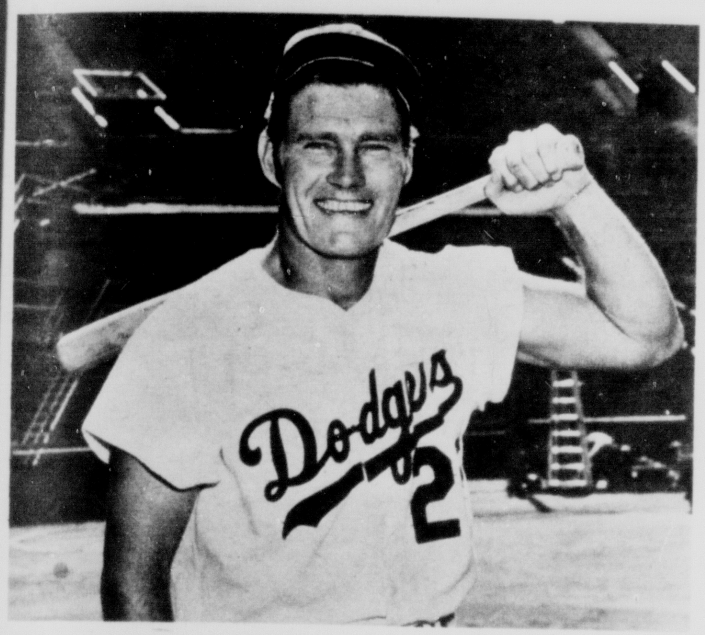
With the Wayne picture under my belt, I felt I was making pretty good progress in this fascinating dodge. But when Biano said he'd like to test me for the second lead in an upcoming Burt Lancaster-Virginia Mayo picture, "South Sea Woman," I wondered if I wasn't getting in over my head. The part called for several big love scenes with Miss Mayo, a delightful yet frightening prospect.

"Well, here's where they separate the men from the boys," I told Betty. When the day of the test arrived, however, my Irish luck held. Lancaster, a hot Angels rooter, was handling the test himself.

Rehearsing for the test, he took me through a big scene. He seemed shocked by the result.

"Gee, Chuck, you don't plan to go out there and do it that way, do you?" he asked.

I was crestfallen.



Antics during Dodger career delighted baseball fans.

Burt called to the director: "When are you going to test Connors?"

"Right away," the reply came.

For the next three hours Burt patiently worked me through the scene until I had it perfect. I got the part and it paid $750 a week.

This brought me a total of over $11,000 for my movie work during the off-season, and it didn't take a genius to figure that this was a little better than the $6,200 I was getting from the Angels for playing first base for six-and-a-half months. I quit baseball in 1952 to become a full-time actor.

Working full-time as an actor, however, is not an easy trick—especially when you measure 6 feet, 5½ inches and make most of Hollywood's big stars look like pygmies. On top of that, I had much to learn about acting.

WHEN the "big break" came, again it was my baseball background that did the trick. More than 40 actors had been tested unsuccessfully for the Lucas McCain leading role in "The Rifleman" TV series. McCain, to fully support the title, had to be able to handle a rifle with the ease and skill of a baton twirler. To test each candidate's potential along this line, the producers came up with a unique device. As each actor walked through the door to be tested, a rifle was thrown directly at him. Most of them dropped it. Some were clunked in the head.

When the rifle came at me, my good baseball reflexes came to the rescue. It was like the bat boy tossing me a bat. I snatched the rifle in mid-air, rather casually. The producers were properly impressed and the part was mine.

After appearing as "The Rifleman" on the ABC-TV network for the past two years, my mail is heavy with requests from aspiring television actors. With tongue in cheek, I tell them all the same thing: "Buy a first-baseman's glove and work on your sense of humor."

That's how I got to first base in TV.
